FINDS FRAUD, ILLEGALITY IN ELECTION IN ALABAMA

Chairman Hastings of U. S. Senate Sub-Committee Formally Questions the Validity of John H. Bankhead's Victory.

SAYS EXPENDITURES WERE EXCESSIVE

Report on Heflin's Contest, Filed Without Recommendations, Declares Violation of Law Was Rule Rather Than Exception.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—On findings of general disregard for election laws, and circumstances indicating "some fraud," Chairman Hastings of the Senate Election Subcommittee today formally questioned the validity of the Alabama election that sent John H. Bankhead to the United States Senate.

The Republican Senator from Delaware laid a bulky report, without recommendations, before his committee as it gathered to permit counsel for Bankhead and the contestant, former Senator J. Thomas Heflin, to argue disputed points.

Outstanding conclusions of the report were:

That violations by election officials were the rule rather than the exception, and extended to every voting place examined.

That on the basis of ballots temporarily laid aside, Hastings' works could not find that the election result would be altered, but other questionable ballots might change this.

That Bankhead spent $1500 to $200 more than permitted by the Alabama law disqualifying candidates with expenditures exceeding $10,000.

That exclusion of all improperly handled ballots would make determination of the wishes of the Alabama majority impossible.

Alleges Many Irregularities.

That among the law violations by election officials were failure to number the ballots in ink; failure to roll and seal the ballots; breaking of seals on ballot boxes; voting of absentee 10 years out of the state; voting by persons who did not pay the poll taxes until long after the legally specified time.

Opportunity for fraud, said Hastings, was ever present and the combination of circumstances would satisfy a reasonable person that some fraud has been committed.

The chairman has indicated he will have some recommendations for the committee later, in closed session. After this group acts the entire election committee must study the report, and then it will be sent to the Senate.

Indications are that Bankhead will be seated next week, the contest coming up later.

Republican leaders, however, gave consideration to a move to deny a seat to Bankhead when he resigned himself Monday. Chairman Shortridge of the Elections Committee said he had not decided whether to take him. He said, however, there were ample precedents for refusing a seat to Bankhead, citing the Senate's refusal to allow Frank L. Smith of Illinois and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania to be seated in 1927. In those cases, he said, the action was taken without the basis of a Senate investigation as in the Bankhead case. And there was not even a contest against Smith, he added.

Doubts Validity of Election.

Great emphasis was given by Hastings to the disregard of provisions of State law intended to protect the ballot. If they had been fewer, he said, he assumed the committee would have ascertained whether exclusion of faulty ballots would change the results, and finding the contrary would have been the matter rest. But under the circumstances, he added: "It is my judgment that the serious question confronting the committee is whether in view of the many violations of the law by the election officers as above pointed out it is possible to say that there was a legal election of a United States Senator in Alabama in the year 1930."

The investigation was caused by Heflin's charge of fraud in the voting which went $50,000 against him. He made his race as an independent.

TELEGRAMS URGE THAT AIRSHIP BE NAMED ST. LOUIS

What had happened may be surmised from the testimony of Lynch, D. M. Lida, president of St. Louis Dairy, and Bruno Tschannen, president of Highland Dairy.

Base milk, as repeatedly explained in the Post-Dispatch a year or more ago, is that proportion of the minimum supply going into fluid milk sales. It is priced in line with the retail value of fluid milk. Surplus milk for by-product uses goes to the creamery at a lower price based on the butter market.

It may be seen from this that the amount of base milk depends on the market itself, and not on the

TWO JUDGES TELL OF DEALS BY DOG TRACK POLITICIANS
Miller Says His Brother Was Hired by Kennel Club and Gives New Details of $25,000 Offer.
BERNREUTER REPORTS REMARKS BY BOHM
Jurist in Witness Chair Quotes State's Attorney as Asking Him "Didn't Brown See You?"
After Circuit Judges Miller and Bernreuter had told how they were approached to withdraw their opposition to the dog track of the Madison Kennel Club, the hearing on motions of club attorneys to declare illegal a special grand jury, which returned indictments against the club and its officers, was continued yesterday until tomorrow morning.
Counsel for both sides indicated to Circuit Judge Franklin Dove of Shelbyville, who presided at Edgewood, they would submit their arguments tomorrow.
Judge Miller, called by the prosecution to tell of conditions which prompted the calling of the special grand jury last September, declared in detail the $25,000 offer he was made to him at his home at Lebanon the night of June 27 last.
"I, E. J. Verlie, an Alton attorney, acting on behalf of Richard W. Miller, Alton, president of the club, and quoted Verlie as telling him of a conversation with Judge Bernreuter and State's Attorney Bohm at Madison County, preceding the proposition.
"The offer was made, Judge Miller said, to induce him to issue an injunction protecting the dog track against interference by State's Attorney Bohm and Sheriff Fitzgerald. Such an injunction was issued subsequently by Judge Brown, brother of Alton, causing a judicial controversy now culminating in the courts.
"What Miller Concluded.
"Telling of his reasons for joining with Judge Bernreuter in calling a special grand jury, Judge Miller said:
"I concluded if they were willing to pay me $25,000 to issue the injunction, somebody got some money."
Judge Miller related how Verlie came to his home, explained he was merely as the bearer of a message and finally outlined a proposition he said came from William Miller, brother of Richard W. Miller, who was seeking on his farm, Judge Miller testified he previously had sought such a loan from Verlie, whom he has known for a long time. Judge Miller said he rejected the offer, referring to it as "scholastic stuff," and telling Verlie: "My hands are up. I'm whipped. The broke. But I don't get money."
At Lincoln Tomb Ceremony.
Prior to detailing the offer, Judge Miller testified, Verlie told him he had been to Springfield with Wilder during the day at the dedication of the Lincoln tomb, looking for Judge Brown. They did not see him, but saw State's Attorney Bohm, Judge Miller quoted Verlie as saying.
Judge Miller said that Verlie told him Bohm advised against seeing Judge Brown, saying Judge Brown was angry because of his defeat at a nominating convention at Alton for the Supreme Court bench. It was suggested then, Judge Miller testified, Verlie explained, that Verlie call on him.
Judge Miller said Verlie disclosed to him that he previously had approached Judge Bernreuter, telling him an organization in Madison County would oppose him for reelection if he continued about the dog track, but that Judge Bernreuter refused to withdraw his opposition.
Denies Seeking Loan.
On cross-examination, Judge Miller denied he ever tried to borrow $10,000 from Verlie "for anything else" and said that on July 5 last, Verlie telephoned and said that Wilder and H. H. Ferguson of Alton, who had been appointed to make the appointment, wanted to see him but that he declined to make the appointment.
Ferguson, the former president of the Illinois Terminal Railroad, was one of several defense witnesses who testified that C. C. Wilson of Alton, special prosecutor, and Bohm are political rivals.
Questioned concerning his sources of information about the dog track, Judge Miller told of hearing it several times, and reading about it and then added:
"I have a younger brother who doesn't listen to my advice. He obtained employment at the track. I learned through him that a Deputy Sheriff was employed there. My brother was employed there at the solicitation of Richard Wilder, who thought it would curb my tongue. But it hasn't."
He Quotes Cleveland.
Judge Miller quoted President Cleveland concerning a necessary "sober thought" and the importance of judicial integrity. A Fitzgerald of Springfield, attorney for the club, interposed a remark to the effect that Judge Mil-

ORDERS CLOSING OF LOTTO GAMES RUN FOR PROFIT
Circuit Attorney Gives Operators Till Saturday Night to Suspend Before Making Arrests.
Commercial lotto games, which have been doing a thriving business on the South Side and in several locations in North St. Louis, must cease, Circuit Attorney Miller told operators of games, who were summoned to his office yesterday afternoon.
Miller's order followed a police investigation in which officers sat in games to obtain evidence of alleged violations of the gambling statutes. The evidence includes an apron, which represented the total winnings of the officers.
The Circuit Attorney announced that the order applies only to games from which individuals derive a profit. He said lotto and other games in which the proceeds were given to charity would not be molested, but he reserved the right of investigating all games and determining whether the beneficiary was a charity.
Given Until Saturday Night.
The operators were granted until Saturday night to close up business. It being explained that some have weekly agreements for the use of halls, and have a considerable investment in prizes. There will be no extension beyond that time, the Circuit Attorney said, and violators will be prosecuted for operating a gaming device, a felony punishable on conviction by a maximum sentence of five years in the penitentiary, by fine or workhouse sentence.
Following a police campaign against lotto and euchre games six years ago, which resulted in petitions of protest bearing thousands of signatures of lotto enthusiasts being presented to the Governor, interest in the game lagged. In the last year, however, lotto games were revived on a commercial basis, the operators in general being women.
Games were held daily in some halls. Large crowds, attracted by prizes which included dining room and bedroom suites, kitchen outfits, electric refrigerators, stoves, wearing apparel, blankets, and general household articles, attended. One tally usually cost 25 cents, with most of the games offering five tallies, or chances, for $1.
To Comply With Order.
Husbands whose wives brought home new dining room outfits for $11 became interested, and games were held at night to accommodate the male enthusiasts. At least half the players at the evening games were men.
The operators summoned before the Circuit Attorney indicated that they would heed the order. Places where games were held regularly, according to the police report to the Circuit Attorney, include Gambrinus Hall, Triangle Park, Corolla Hall, and Jeffie Hall in North St. Louis, the A. B. C. Hall on Easton avenue, and several other places in North St. Louis.
Three women and a man called on Sheriff Lill of St. Louis County today to inquire about legal objections to their operating lotto games at Lindy Hall in Wellston, where games formerly were conducted. After informing them that lotto and other games of chance conducted other than for charitable purposes would not be tolerated, Lill told reporters that he is prepared to raid all such games. According to his statement, there has been no commercial lotto in the county for two years.

2000 REQUESTS FOR CHRISTMAS BASKETS SO FAR Demand Exceeds Expectations in First Three Days at Post-Dispatch Festival Headquarters.
Requests for Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival baskets are exceeding expectations. Although the basket application headquarters, 1312 Pine street, has been open only three days, almost 2000 applications have been received.
The staff of workers, which is recording the necessary information, thought it was hard pushed the first day when 467 families applied—an average of more than one a minute. Tuesday the applications totaled 576 and yesterday 335.
Convincing as these figures are, even they fall short of conveying an impression of the tremendous demand upon the Christmas Festival to supply Christmas cheer three weeks from tomorrow for those who would otherwise be without it.
Not in all the history of the Christmas Festival, and this is its thirty-second year, has there existed greater need for just such hospitality as it is designed to provide. Although no attempt has been made to give people a chance to subscribe to the fund which will make the Festival possible, donations are already coming in.
The Christmas Festival Executive Committee appreciates this early indication that the needy of the city will as in the past be privileged to enjoy holiday cheer. Itemized acknowledgment will be made later.
Beginning Saturday morning, Negro basket applications will be received at the Pine Street branch of the Y. M. C. A., 2338 Pine street.
10-YEAR LEGAL CONTROVERSY OVER STREET WIDENING ENDS
City Pays Damages for Work on Vandeventer Avenue, Chouteau to Hunt.
Legal skirmishes that started 10 years ago over a proposal to widen Vandeventer avenue, between Chouteau and Hur' avenues, a distance of six blocks, were concluded today when Comptroller Nolte paid into Circuit Court $68,925 damages for the widening.
Wrecking of condemned buildings on the east side of the street, to make it 80 instead of 60 feet wide, will start this winter. New paving will be laid next spring. The city also will pay an additional $16,632 for the widening.
Only one 12-block strip of Vandeventer avenue, between Aldine avenue, formerly Lucky street, and Kennerly avenue, will then remain to be widened, and a condemnation ordinance for that strip has been introduced in the Board of Aldermen.
LABORER STRUCK BY AUTO DIES AT CITY HOSPITAL

The body of William Colclazier, about 55 years old, of 4643 Ray avenue, was found this morning in a washroom in one of the Calvary Cemetery buildings. Nearby was a bottle containing a half pint of whiskey mixed with poison.
His son, Walter Colclazier of 6133 Louisiana avenue, who identified the body, said his father had been dependent since the death of his wife about a year ago and may have visited her grave in Calvary Cemetery today before his death.

Society Woman to Spend 6 Months Alone in Alaska
Mrs. Edward M. Biddle Will Leave Three Children and Husband 'to Work Out Own Problems.'
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—"I don't care for civilization. I get sick of society. I'm going up to Alaska next week to work out my own problems," says Mrs. Edward M. Biddle, who is going north next Wednesday, alone.
She is leaving her husband and three children for six months to live alone in the ice-bound wastes of the Alaskan mountains. She is not going as an explorer; she is not going, as some people have said, to do research work on the living conditions of Alaskan women. She is going simply because she believes in every woman's right to be alone.
The correspondent talked to her yesterday in the Park avenue apartment of Mrs. Charles E. Miller, where she is fitting up her heavy camera and Arctic equipment for her long trek north. She is a tall, unaffected woman of 29; dark-haired, brown-eyed; nothing about her but her long limbs and long, capable hands to suggest she would not be content to spend her life as she has lived it for the last 10 years—as the successfully married debutante, dividing her time and fortune between Philadelphia and New York.
"I've been married 10 years," she said. "From the time I was 19 until now I've lived like any other girl with a certain amount of money and a conventional background."
Advised by Stefansson.
"But in the last few years I got—well, not exactly impatient, but curious to know what life was like when you came down to the bare essentials of food and warmth and death. I wanted to go to Alaska two years ago, but the explorer who fired my imagination about it backed out at the last moment, saying it was no journey for a woman. Then two months ago I met Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Icelandic explorer, and he gave me sound advice about getting into the interior and living among the trappers until I could push farther north, alone. "Some of my friends have laughed at me, and say I have 'too much thyroid,' or something, but I think I am just one of those lonely people—there are so many of them, too—who can't feel that they are really alive while they are existing among hundreds of others and attending to things that seem trivial. I have had to make a good fight to make this trip, because after all it's not just the quiet thing in the world to leave your three babies and your husband for six months, but there it is. I just want to do it more than anything else in life. Whether or not it solves my problems, I'll tell you better when I return."
Mrs. Biddle's husband, a prominent Philadelphia lawyer, is giving her every help on her adventurous scheme.
Will Leave Next Week.
"He thinks it will be grand experience for me," she said, "and the children are excited about it, too. I want to be able to make my own expenses by writing when I come back. My husband has been so good to me about it that I don't want to burden him with the expense of my adventure."
Mrs. Biddle leaves New York next Wednesday, and will travel by train to Nenana, the northernmost point of the railroad. After that it is possible to travel only by dog team.
"I shall go from the Nenana to Fort Yukon," she said, "and from there up the Porcupine River with a dog team and guide. I hope to go 500 miles into the interior from Fort Yukon, about 1000 miles from the coast. There are only trappers and silver miners up on those wastes; they are primitive people, and I mean to live among them and be as alone as I can until the spring."
The question everyone has asked Mrs. Biddle is why she has chosen December, of all months of the year, for penetrating the frozen heart of Alaska.
"I want," she says, "to go somewhere where I can't get back for six months even if I want to. The North is the only place where I shall be hemmed in and thrown on my own resources."
Receiver'ship Suit Against Aetna Loan Association
Holder of One-Half Share of Stock Files Action; Says Agreement Was Ignored.
Suit for a receiver for the Aetna Savings & Loan Association of Madison County, with offices in the Syndicate Trust Building, was filed in Circuit Court today by S. Orenstein, who owns one-half share of stock in the association.
The petition states the value of the stock is $50 and that the officers of the association have failed to comply with a written notice to return to petitioner the amount of his investment, pursuant to an agreement. It is further alleged that because of the present condition of the defendant's assets a receiver is desired to protect the interests of Orenstein and other stockholders.
According to the petition, stock of a face value of $1,000,000 has been subscribed, but only a small part of this has been paid, and only a few shareholders are continuing to make payments on account. The association is said to own real estate valued at $140,000 and holds loans amounting to $16,000. A. P. O'Brien, president, could not be reached.

MRS. VIRGINIA BLOCK, 102 YEARS OLD, DIES
She Succumbs at Daughter-in-Law's Home—Avenue Named for Her.
Mrs. Virginia Bingham Block, 102 years old, for whom Virginia avenue was named, died yesterday at the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Marshall A. Block, 18 Yale avenue, University City, of paralysis. She had been ill about five months.
Mrs. Block, who was born in St. Louis, Dec. 6, 1829, was the daughter of John Bingham, wealthy slave owner who lived on a large farm adjoining present Grant's Farm, country estate of August A. Busch, on Gravois road. Her husband, Hyman Block, died more than 30 years ago. Mrs. Block was educated at Visitation Academy and was its oldest graduate.
Her father was the son of Sir John Bingham of England and her mother a daughter of Col. Thomas H. Britton, an officer in the British Army during the Revolutionary War. Her own family came from Virginia and were tried in the Luas, Chouteau, Papin and other early families of the city, their name being perpetuated in Bingham avenue in South St. Louis.
Mrs. Block often recounted to her family how she had seen Indians in and about the city and remembered Twelfth street when it was a roadway in the forest. She recalled a visit to a dentist's office during the Civil War when the dentist put mattresses over the windows to protect himself and his patient from bullets fired by Union soldiers.
Following the death of her husband, a wealthy landowner, Mrs. Block traveled widely.
During the early part of her married life she lived in a house near the present site of Union Market and later lived on Papin street.
Mrs. Block is survived by a son, John B. Block, who lives on a ranch near Albuquerque, N. M., her daughter-in-law, and a grandson, James B. Block.
The funeral will be held from the Church of Christ the King in University City at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

County Prosecuting Attorney Says Impostors Are on Job Again.
A warning against impostors who represent themselves as solicitors for charitable organizations but in reality are swindlers was issued today by Prosecuting Attorney Harry Castlen, at Clayton.
"Information has reached my office," Castlen said, "that certain men who make it a business to 'promote' enterprises of their own have returned to St. Louis County. These men collect donations for a non-existent charity and pocket the proceeds."

MISSOURI STATE LIFE'S BANKING POLICY ATTACKED

Letter to Stockholders From Group Seeking Control Points Out Losses in Closed Depositories.

An attack on the banking policy of the present management of the Missouri State Life Insurance Co., resulting in large loss of deposits in bank failures, was made in a letter sent yesterday to the company stockholders by the Fels-Dorsey group which is seeking control.

The letter asserts that at the end of 1930 the company had up in closed banks amounted to $400,000, of which approximately $200,000 was in the Bank of Tennessee, "generally known as a Caldwell bank."

"Of this total sum," the letter continues, "the present management has estimated that $549,450 is uncollectible and this sum has been deducted from the surplus of your company. Of the balance of the money deposited in closed banks, approximately $400,000 is secured by collateral and may be recovered, and the balance is represented by law suits, and if the efforts to realize on such collateral and the law suits are unsuccessful, then a very large additional sum must be deducted from the surplus of your company."

Shrinkage During Year.
The letter states that at the beginning of 1930 the company had capital and surplus of $7,245,132; that on July 7, 1930, 100,000 shares of the company's stock were sold for $1,000,000, increasing capital and surplus to $8,245,132, but that at the end of the year the combined items had shrunk to $6,115,571, a loss of surplus of $2,129,561 for the year.

Referring to the fact that F. O. Watts, chairman of the board of the First National Bank in St. Louis, and now a member of the group seeking proxies for a seven-year voting trust, to exercise control, was then, as now, a member of the company's board of directors the letter continues:

"Mr. Watts is an experienced banker and while it is not to be expected that his banking experience would aid greatly in directing the insurance affairs of your company, it would be expected that his banking experience would enable him to select safe banks for the deposit of the company's funds."

The letter calls "significant" the statement in a letter sent recently to stockholders by E. D. Nims, chairman of the board of directors and leader of the seven-year trust plan, that the company should have a new president. In this connection, Hillsman Taylor, president, sent a letter to stockholders last week announcing he would not seek re-election and urging support of the Nims voting trust plan.

Caldwell Stock Is Sold.
The Fels-Dorsey group represents in addition to other stock, the large block comprising 29 1/2 per cent of all outstanding, which was acquired from the Caldwell interests following the failure in 1929 of Caldwell & Co., large Southern investment and banking house. The Caldwell company had been represented on the board of directors and was said to have been the dominating influence in control of the Missouri State Life. The bank of Tennessee, in which the insurance company had about $500,000 deposited when it closed, was a Caldwell enterprise.

The Caldwell holdings in Missouri State Life were sold by the trustees of Caldwell & Co. to the Inter-Southern Life Insurance Co., controlled by the Keystone Holding Co. of Hammond, Ind., of which M. J. Dorsey is president. The Inter-Southern company holdings of Keystone later were sold to Security Life Insurance Co. of Chicago, also controlled by Keystone.

The annual meeting of stockholders of Missouri State Life will be held Jan. 13, and a new board of directors will be elected. The board then will elect the executive officers of the company. Control at that time will depend upon which of the two rival groups succeeds in obtaining enough proxies to give it a majority. The Fels-Dorsey group, as has been stated, controls in one block nearly one-third of the outstanding stock.

HOW 'SOFT' X-RAYS DISCLOSE POISONS IN BONE MINERALS

Method of Discovering Lead and Arsenic Described Before Convention of Radiological Society.

A report on a study of bone structure made possible by the use of "soft" X-rays, which lie between light rays and the ordinary X-rays, was given to members of the Radiological Society of North America today by Dr. Sterling B. Hendricks of the United States Department of Agriculture laboratories.

The "soft" X-rays, Dr. Hendricks said, revealed a crystal mineral structure within the bones which could not be examined by ordinary X-rays. He was able to analyze the arrangement of minerals and explain more readily than heretofore how poisons such as lead and arsenic attack the system.

Normal bone crystals are made up chiefly of calcium, carbon, phosphorus, hydrogen and oxygen, combined in crystalline forms which may be compared to building bricks. Lead and arsenic, Dr. Hendricks found, form crystals of the proper size to displace certain of the regular "bricks," and other substances, which do not attack the bones so readily are excluded partly because they do not fit. Lead, he said, may substitute for the brick containing calcium, as may magnesium and soda crystals, sometimes found in surplus quantity in the bones. Arsenic and vanadium may displace the phosphorus bricks. Vanadium poisoning has occurred among steel workers who inhale fumes of furnaces where the metal is melted.

Dr. Byron H. Jackson, radiologist at Moses Taylor Hospital, Scranton, Pa., was chosen president-elect of the society at its meeting this afternoon at Hotel Jefferson. He will take office a year from now. Dr. Francis Carter Wood of New York will become president following the annual banquet tonight, succeeding Dr. Bundy Allen of Tampa, Fla.

Rare Disease of Children. A little understood and fortunately rare disease of childhood, osteopathy, was discussed by Dr. Lowell S. Goin, Los Angeles, who described studies of 11 cases. Only about 200 have been reported in medical histories. Those afflicted with this disease frequently suffer bone fractures with little or no violence. Cases have been known where broken bones resulted from such acts as turning over in bed, arising from a chair, or from the motion of a train on which the patient may be riding. As many as 50 fractures may be suffered before adolescence.

There is no treatment which produces any appreciable effect on the disease, Dr. Goin concluded. Some forms, he said, are hereditary.

The use of X-ray therapy in treating arthritis was described by Dr. Hints Langer, St. Louis, who has treated 850 cases with that method in the last five years. "One of the reasons why it is not used more often," Dr. Langer said, "is that a severe reaction frequently is observed after roentgen therapy of the afflicted point, and as neither the roentgenologists nor the internist can discover a satisfactory explanation the treatment is abandoned." Dr. Langer, to overcome this objection, has employed a new technique which consists in applying X-rays over ganglia and nerves which lead to the afflicted part of the body, and said it has proved its value.

Study of Thyroid Disease. Dr. Leon J. Menville of Tulane University reported on 880 cases of thyroid disease in a symposium on the subject in which Dr. Willard Bartlett, Sr. and Dr. Willard Bartlett, Jr. of St. Louis participated. The survey, Dr. Menville said, was undertaken because it was known that irradiation was helpful, but figures were not available to show its effectiveness. Radiologists in the United States and Canada were asked to report, and it developed that no mortality was recorded in the entire group of more than 800 cases. The percentage of cures was 68 per cent and 21 per cent showed marked improvement.

Foreign bodies, most frequently the peanut, are common factors in bronchial ailments of children, and the possibility of their presence should not be overlooked in diagnosis, Dr. Louis H. Clerf of Jefferson Medical College and Hospital reported. General use of the X-ray for this purpose, he said, will prove helpful.

Movies of Cancer Cells. Moving pictures of animal cancer cells 25 years old were shown last night. Dr. Francis Carter Wood, president-elect of the society, in his talk accompanying the showing of the film, explained the cells were obtained by transferring them from one white rat to another at intervals of a month. "The scientist in his laboratory is studying the life of cancer cells," Dr. Wood said. "If he finds out how they grow, what is good food for them, he may some day learn what is bad food. If the food which he had for cancer cells is not harmful to healthy tissues, then the cure for cancer will be in sight." A method of taking X-ray pictures of the arteries was described last night by Dr. Carlos Hauser, Buenos Aires, who tonight will receive one of two gold medals presented each year by the society for outstanding achievement. The gold medal is to be awarded, not for his artery discovery, but for long years of work in radiology, a science in which he was one of the pioneers.

WHEAT TARIFF SOUGHT BY BRITISH MILLERS

They Suggest 9-Cent Duty, With Preferential Rate to Dominions.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Dec. 2.—A general tariff against foreign wheat of about 9 cents a bushel, at the present rate of British exchange, the Daily Express says, has been proposed by British millers.

The millers also proposed, the Express says, that a similar duty be imposed on unsold foreign wheat stored in Great Britain, particularly thousands of tons of Soviet grain lying in port elevators.

The suggestions were made to Sir John Simon, Minister of Agriculture, who is working on the task of applying to the products of British farmers the new tariff policy recently announced by the National Government as a protection against dumping of foreign goods in Great Britain.

In line with proposals for general tariff preferences for the British Dominions, the millers suggested, the Express adds, that the wheat tariff against importations from Dominions be fixed at half the rate on that from other countries.

The rate suggested was 4 shillings a quarter on foreign wheat, which would be about 9 cents a bushel, and 2 shillings a quarter Dominion wheat.

The plan was suggested, the paper said, in place of the wheat quota scheme which the ministry has had under consideration and under which a certain proportion of British-grown wheat would be used by millers for each amount of foreign grain milled. The millers, it said, argued against the quota plan, contending it would disorganize trade.

A tariff against all imports that compete with British industries will be proposed in a resolution submitted to the annual meeting of the National Union of Manufacturers next Tuesday.

George Tercel, president of the organization, said he would also press for the appointment of a tariff commission.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—The Rev.
Amos Oyer, 49 years old, a taber-was shot dead last night when he was caught in the cross fire between robbers and a drug store owner.The minister had stopped for a soda before going to the non-sectarian Southwest Gospel Tabernacle to hold a midweek prayer meeting. Stepping back from the counter, he was just about to walk out when two robbers entered and ordered him and the owner, Charles W. Kenny, to put up their hands.

Kenny, standing behind the prescription counter, seized a double barreled shotgun, and fired at the robbers. One of them fired. The preacher fell to the floor, dead.
The robbers fled to an automobile and escaped.The Rev. Mr. Oyer opened his tabernacle here two years ago.
During the previous four years he was pastor of the Baptist church at Lima, O. He was ordained 20 years ago, and spent four years as

25 Pct. Allowance Made Last December.
Creditors of the Union-Easton
Trust Co., which failed in March, 1930, will receive an additional payment of 10 per cent on Dec. 20.
George W. Clarkson, special deputy said the payment would amount to about $47,000. Last December creditors were paid 25 per cent.

Deposits, according to the last statement of the bank, were about seeming discrepancy between that

he was paying 10 per cent by say-

QUIZZED ON NOTES TO INTERNATIONAL SHOE CO. OFFICERS

Sam D. Nichols, Head of Menzie's Co. Has $13,- 000,000 Damage Suit
Pending Against Rivals.

Sam D. Nichols, president of the Menzie's Shoe Co., was questioned yesterday concerning letters and telegrams he has addressed to Frank C. Rand, chairman of the board of directors of the International Shoe Co., and others since the filing of a $13,000,000 damage suit in which Nichols' company alleges the International conspired to ruin its business.

He was examined, in a deposition before Special Commissioner Ernest A. Green, by Jacob M. Lashly, who entered the case yesterday as counsel for the International company, associated with Robert E. Blake and Richard O. Rumer.

Nichols identified a telegram, dated last Friday, as one which he had sent to Rand. Its cryptic message, not explained by his testimony, was: "Well, well, well. Isn't it too bad with only two more days to go and the stock market so weak again today. What are the stockholders going to say about the speculation with their money in the company's stock and the results. Why don't you get Mr. Rumer to come to your rescue?"

Lashly merely had Nichols identify the exhibit, and did not at that time offer it in evidence. After the hearing Lashly said he did not know to what Nichols referred, and Nichols declined to explain.

Sent Letter to Lodge.
That was followed, Monday, by another telegram to Rand, which read: "Fine work greatly appreciate. Did Mr. Rumer help?" A copy of this message, it was indicated, was sent to William H. Moulton, president of the International company.

The offices of the Menzie's company, and those of the International, are within a short distance of each other, on opposite sides of Washington avenue, the International at 1808 and Menzie's at 1724.

Lashly exhibited also, as letters written by Nichols last Wednesday, communications to Rand, Mrs. Rand and Moulton, which accompanied carbon copies of a letter sent to the Masonic lodge to which Nichols and Rumer belong. This complained of Rumer's acceptance of employment by the International company because several years ago, when bankruptcy proceedings were pending against the Menzie's company, Nichols had employed him to represent his company.

Not offered as an exhibit, but shown by Nichols to those present, was a copy of a letter he has sent to the St. Louis Bar Association, making the same complaint.

Unfined Powder Exhibited.
A letter sent to Rand by Nichols a week ago Monday was introduced by Lashly. Accompanying this was a proof of a postcard on which was reproduced a published statement by Rand referring to low prices for shoe materials last summer. The card bore also an inquiry as to whether those who received it had got any benefit from the low prices.

Nichols said he had sent the proof to Rand, with a letter suggesting that he would consider it met with his approval unless he received a protest. None was received, he said, and two days later the card was mailed to several shoe stores, department stores and other merchants.

A postcard, sent from Los Angeles Nov. 4, was exhibited by Lashly, but Nichols said he had never seen it before and knew nothing of it. The penciled message, addressed to Moulton, was: "Look out for the big squeeze. Your best cannot save them." The card was not signed.

Nichols identified as his a letter sent to Rand last May in which he demanded an apology for an insult he said Rand had offered to him at the offices of the International company.

Circular Letter Admitted.
The only communication admitted in evidence was the first Lashly exhibited, a circular letter sent out by Nichols, bearing reproductions of newspaper clippings concerning the damage suit and asserting that he could sell cheaper than competitors because he engaged only in manufacturing and had no tanning or other supplementary factories.

This was accepted as evidence over the objection of Edward K. Schwartz, attorney for the Menzie's company, who argued that it was a personal message from Nichols, no binding on the company of which he is president. Schwartz asked that the Circuit Court pass on the propriety of the commissioner's ruling.

The commissioner indicated he would sustain similar objections to the other exhibits, on the ground that they were a personal matter, and Lashly did not at that time definitely offer them.

Other witnesses, summoned by the Menzie's company, were Howard V. Stephens, president of Johnson-Stephens & Shanks Shoe Co., and George O. Carpenter Jr., an insurance broker. Both testified they had no knowledge of matters at issue in the suit.

E. ST. LOUIS RAILWAY TO MAKE SERVICE CHANGES DEC. 13

Announces Alterations in Routing and Discontinuance of Certain Lines.

The East St. Louis Railway Co. will discontinue motor bus operation on part of its St. Clair avenue line, from Wabash avenue to Cahokia Creek, and on its Twenty-fifth street crosstown line, between Lincoln and Missouri avenues.

The Caseyville avenue bus line, which now stops at Fortieth street, will be extended east to Kingshighway and will make a downtown loop at its west end, over Collinsville avenue to Fifth street to Broadway to Collinsville avenue to Missouri avenue to Fifth street.

The changes will be made Dec. 13, and have been authorized by the Illinois Commerce Commission. The company stated in its petition that decreasing revenue made the changes necessary. The company is experiencing severe competition from service cars, against which it has secured injunctions.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE FINED FOR POSSESSING BEER

79-Year-Old Man Pleads Guilty — Promises to Keep No More Brew.

John Logan Tolley, 79-year-old school trustee of Dahlgren, Ill., who had a sack of bottled beer hanging in the well and another supply in a shed when prohibition agents visited him, pleaded guilty of possession of liquor and maintenance of a common nuisance before United States District Judge Wham in East St. Louis yesterday and was fined $100.

Tolley told the Court he kept the beer for his own consumption and had given a bottle or two now and then to his friends. He said he had never sold any. Witnesses from Dahlgren testified as to his good standing in the community. He promised the Court that he would keep beer on hand no longer.

Judge Wham yesterday sustained a motion to suppress the evidence obtained by prohibition agents in a raid conducted on the home of Kenneth Stewart, Effingham, Ill., without a search warrant. Charges against him were dismissed.

The agents based their right to search the house on a previous visit, at which time they saw what appeared to be a glass of beer on a table, two slot machines and an electric piano in the place. On their return they did not ask the owner's permission to conduct a search. They found beer and whisky, according to their testimony.
Judge Wham ruled that they did not have conclusive evidence that the house was anything but a private home.

Six persons besides Tolley entered pleas of guilty of liquor violations and are penalized as follows: J. C. Edwards, East St.
Louis, $50 and 30 days in jail;
Tony Sikorski, East St. Louis, $100 and 90 days in jail, to be suspended in favor of a five-year probationary period; Joseph Neer, East St. Louis fined $50; George Mathis, 72, and his wife, Sarah, 51, probation for three years; Edwin Brueckner, Fayetteville, Ill., $100 and 90 days in jail.

'TWO-GUN' CROWLEY SEEKS TO SAVE DOUBLE FROM PRISON

Druggist Denies, However, That Killer Was Man Who Held Up His Store.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—From Sing Sing's death house, Francis (Two-Gun) Crowley, 20-year-old killer of a policeman, was taken into court yesterday and met unexpected opposition to his effort to lift a prison sentence of 20 to 40 years from a young man who bears him a striking resemblance.
Crowley assumed full responsibility for a drug store holdup of last March for which Patrick O'Brien, 19, his "double," was convicted. "I wanted to help the kid —because he's innocent; just as innocent as he could be," said Crowley.

Despite that story Harry Obstgarten, the druggist whose store O'Brien was charged with having robbed, testified that Crowley was not one of three men who held him up. Obstgarten was brought face to face with Crowley in the second trial for O'Brien which arose from the latter's fight for freedom on the ground he was a victim of mistaken identity. Two men who were with Obstgarten also viewed Crowley and the prosecution announced they would be called as rebuttal witnesses. They previously had said they were positive O'Brien was one of the robbers.

How to Protect Children from Athlete's Foot

Health authorities throughout the country are warning parents that the highly contagious disease called Athlete's Foot is rapidly spreading.

While every effort is being made to keep infected persons away from the beaches and swimming pools, where it is most easily spread, it is next to impossible to protect children from exposure.

The best insurance you can give your children against this crippling infection is to rub their feet every night with Moore's Emerald Oil.
This will nip the infection in the bud, and prevent its gaining headway.

CHARITY GAME SEATS BEING SOLD IN BLOCKS

Officials Appointed for Football Contest Saturday at Walsh Stadium.

Buying of large blocks of seats by individuals featured the ticket selling yesterday for the benefit football game Saturday afternoon between St. Louis University and the University of Missouri at Walsh Memorial Stadium. Entire proceeds will go to the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment.

Among those who took groups of seats yesterday were A. E. Eilers, who bought 17 seats; H. Leo Ling, 15; Rodowe H. Abeken, 12; Dr. L. J. Riley and Max S. Jones, 10 each, and A. R. Fathman, eight. In addition, Dr. H. Emmett Kane, J. J. Cooney, Al Connors and Robert Hannagan arranged for group reservations. Alumni groups from both schools have taken blocks of seats.

Frank Birch, who referred the Notre Dame-Southern California game two weeks ago and the St. Louis-Washington game Thursday, will referee the benefit game. Other officials are Howard Millard, Illinois Wesleyan, umpire; Fred Denny, Brown University, field judge; Jimmy Cook, Illinois, head linesman. The game will start at 2 o'clock.

Seats are on sale at St. Louis University Gymnasium, 3672 West Pine boulevard, and at Boyd's clothing store, the Leacock Sporting Goods Co. and the Spalding Athletic Goods Co. Prices are $5 each for box seats, with four seats in a box; $3 for seats in the center sections of the stadium and $2 for any other seats.

Sale of flowers, donations for programs and concessions at the stadium are expected to take care of the expenses of the game, so the entire amount realized on the sale of seats may be turned over to the Citizens' Committee.

ANSWER TO MONSANTO SUIT

Kavalco Companies Deny Using Processes of Plaintiffs.

By the Associated Press. CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 3.—Federal Judge George W. McClintock today had before him an answer of the Kavalco Products of Nitro, denying allegations of fraudulent use of secret chemical processes and breach of contract contained in an injunction suit filed by the Monsanto Chemical Works of St. Louis, and the Rubber Service Laboratories of Akron, O.

The answer was filed by the Kavalco Products firm, C. Olin North and Winfield Scott, all named as defendants, and contended that the defendants never used or disclosed to others trade secrets of the plaintiffs. The processes used by Kavalco, the answer said, were developed by independent research of the defendants at a cost of $70,000 since leaving the employ of the Rubber Service Laboratories.

The plaintiff companies filed the injunction suit Sept. 26, asking that the defendants be restrained

IN HOSIERY UNION SCHEMEMen Take 50 Per Cent Wage Cut and Seek Antitrust Law Exemption for Employers.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—A new plan in which labor and capital jointly seek to unionize the $200,000,000 full-fashioned hosiery industry, and in which labor seeks exemption for its employers from the antitrust laws, was explained today by John W. Edelman, research director of the Hosiery Union.The plan has been in operation two months. The union workers have voluntarily accepted wage reductions of about 50 per cent.
Edelman said, and the union mills have cut prices about 30 per cent to meet competition. He said the plan has brought about unionization of 45 per cent of the industry's 300 plants, whereas but 30 per cent were organized two months ago. Virtually all union plants are now working full time.
"On the basis of lower prices made possible by wage slashes," Edelman said, "we hope to drive the nonunion mills either out of the market or into the union. If the plan is successful it will make the union powerful enough to limit the hours of labor, thus reducing output and automatically raising prices, with the objective of re-establishing higher wage scales and reasonable profit margins."

PREDICTS PLANES WILL GET

LIGHT SIGNALS THROUGH FOG

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Prediction that light signals will be transmitted through several miles of "dense white fog" by Dr. Irving Lang-muir report said, "to draw the definitive conclusion that, with sources of reasonable intensity and with
now be built, signals may be transmitted through dense white fog. The presence of smoke may greatly decrease the range."

WANTS U. S. TO SPEED ENTRY IN WORLD COURT

Church Report Says Early Adherence Would Help Disarmament Conference.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—Ratification of the World Court protocols prior to the next disarmament conference is urged in a statement submitted to the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

Such action on the part of the United States Senate, the statement says, would evidence the purpose of this country to co-operate with other nations in "substituting law for war" and would create an international spirit favorable to the success of the disarmament conference.

Final action on the statement, which also contains recommendations for an all-round reduction of cancellation of war debts and actual reduction of armaments, was deferred pending revision of wording of the section on the World Court by the business committee.

Dr. Joseph A. Vance, pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Detroit, urged the council's final action on the question be brought direct to the attention of the Senate and not to its Foreign Relations Committee.

"The chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, (Senator Borah)," Dr. Vance said, "is dead against us, and any action we might take would be effectively buried if submitted to his group."

Recommendations for workmen's compensation, health insurance, unemployment insurance and old age pensions were presented in the report of the Commission on the Church and Social Service. The commission deplors "the massing of wealth through stock speculation without regard to social consequences."

The commission also presented the statement of its Committee on Marriage and the Home expressing the majority and minority positions on birth control.

The unemployment situation was described to the Council as one of the major concerns of religious forces in America.

"Immediate relief," said James Myers, industrial secretary of the Federal Council, "receives our first consideration. However, the churches are interested not only in relief, but also in the correction of the social and economic conditions out of which unemployment emerges."

Long range planning of public works, adequate unemployment insurance have been approved, to this end, by the churches generally, Myers said.

Denial that the churches of America were lobbying in Washington in the interest of world peace and social legislation generally, was made by Bishop Francis J. McConnell, New York, president of the Federal Council.

VICTIM OF BURNS IS BURIED
The funeral of Mrs. Anna Kransberg, Springfield, Mo., who died there early yesterday of burns suffered accidentally, was held today at the Berger chapel, 4715 McPherson avenue. Burial was in Chesed Shel Emeth Cemetery.

Mrs. Kransberg is survived by her husband, Jake Kransberg, two sons, one of whom is Sol Kransberg, a member of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, and two daughters. Her mother is Mrs. Lena Gellman, superintendent of the Jewish Orthodox Home, 1433 East Grand boulevard.

LEDGER METHODS IN 30 STATES TRACED

Valuation of Central Illinois
Co., Reported Raised $4-$36,748 After Control
Was Acquired.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The financial setup of subsidiaries of the Middle West Utilities Co., the largest unit of the Insull group, came under scrutiny today of the Federal Trade Commission.

Asel R. Colbert, a commission examiner, placed in the record the intricate account of the Middle West expansion into 30 states east of the Rocky Mountains by serving power to smaller communities through larger operating companies.

He said the Missouri Gas & Electric Service Co., Inc., after taking over the Marshall Light, Heat & Power Co., and the Lexington Gas & Electric Co. in 1912 set up a "plant, real estate and franchise" of $40,483 which was $172,452 in excess of the cost to the Middle West company.

At the same time, Colbert said there was a "write down" of the plant account of about $45,000 by the gas and electric company based on the book value of plant and property in the accounts of the Marshall and Lexington companies.

First among the subsidiary companies of the major unit of the In-sull group on which Colbert reported differences in cost and book value of properties involved was the Central Illinois Public Service Co. He said that, comparing the cost to the Middle West Co. of Central Illinois Co. common stock, with stated values in the company's accounts, on Dec. 31, 1930,
the Middle West paid $4,836,748
less than the stated value of $21-$99,450 for 260,343 shares.

Middle West Co. representatives attending the hearings, when asked by newspaper men about this item, contended it involved a small amount largely explained in Colbert's report itself.

They Cited Major Item.
They pointed to the major item,
for $1,500,000, he listed as contributing to the $4,836,748 difference cited in the Central Illinois Co. case, explaining discount or stock issued in 1912 and stock insured for services in 1913 accounted for virtually all the difference the par value acquired by Middle West in August, 1912 "at no cost and set up at par" by the Central Illinois Co.

Among other alleged set-ups of securities Colbert recited was one of $151,500 reported in the sale of the operating properties of the Nebraska City Utilities Co., to the Central Power Co. in 1927.

The Illinois Northern Utilities
Co.'s activities also were described, including its purchase of the Tri-County Light & Power Co. Through this, Colbert reported, the Middle West Co. profited and took over par value stock at no cost.

Colbert's Write Up Estimate.
Colbert held $1,638,412, representing excess securities issued on properties and assets acquired from predecessor companies, was "the approximate amount of write-up in the plant and property account of the Kentucky Utilities Co." when it was organized in 1912 by the Middle West.

The examiner said the Middle West had purchased the greater portion of its holdings of common stock of Kentucky Utilities Co., for cash or its equivalent at a price equal to the par value of such stock.

Colbert was approximately half finished at the close of the second day's hearings.

HOOVER URGES EASY CREDIT TERMS FOR AVERAGE MAN WHO DESIRES TO OWN HOME

Tells Washington Conference Loans Should Be Obtained on Less Difficult Condition Than Apply at Pawnshop.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Advice to heed the fundamentals of human sentiment was given by President Hoover last night to 1000 delegates to his conference on home building and home ownership.

"They never sing songs about a pile of rent receipts. . . .
Those immortal ballads, 'Home,
Sweet Home,' 'My Old Kentucky
Home,' and the 'Little Gray Home
in the West,' were not written about tenements or apartments," said the President.

The essential of the Hoover plan is that purchase of a home shall be made possible to the average man on much the same basis that he acquires a car, a radio or a fur coat for his wife. The President seeks to do away with expensive financing now forced upon people of limited means. Though they have little cash and their principal asset is a job and good character, they should have available financing that would "dignify the name credit" and do away with "terms and risks comparable to the credit extended by a pawnbroker," he said.

President's Address.
The text of the President's address, which was broadcast by radio, follows:
"You have come from every state in the Union to consider a matter of basic national interest. Your purpose is to consider it in its long view rather than its emergency aspects. Next to food and clothing the housing of a nation is its most vital social and economic problem.
This conference has been called especially to consider the great segment of that problem—that is, in what manner can we facilitate the ownership of homes and how can we protect the owners of homes?"

"The conference also has before it some phases of that great segment of housing; that is, the standards of tenement and apartment dwellings. While at this time we give primary emphasis to home ownership in city, town and farm, we are all of us concerned in the improvement of city housing. I hope we may at some future time subject the question of city housing to more definitely organized national intelligence through which we shall further establish standards which will give impetus to public understanding and public action to this, the question of blighted areas and slums in many of our great cities.

"I am confident that the sentiment for home ownership is so embedded in the American heart that millions of people who dwell in tenements, apartments, and rented rows of solid brick have the aspiration for wider opportunity in ownership of their own homes. To possess one's own home is the hope and ambition of almost every individual in our country, whether he lives in hotel, apartment or tenement.

Democracy and Home Owners.
"While the purpose of this conference is to study and advise upon the very practical questions of home design, of materials, of building regulations, of zoning, of taxes, of transportation, of financing, of parks and playgrounds, and other topics, yet behind it all every one of you here is impelled by the high ideal and aspiration that each family may pass their days in the home which they own; that they may nurture it as theirs; that it may be their case in all that exquisite sentiment which it surrounds with the sweetness of family life.

"This aspiration penetrates the heart of our national well-being,
it makes for happier married life,

it makes for better children, it makes for confidence and security, it makes for courage to meet the battle of life, it makes for better citizenship. There can be no fear for a democracy or self-government or for liberty or freedom from home owners no matter how humble they may be.

Home Versus Housing.
"There is a wide distinction between homes and mere housing.
Those immortal ballads, 'Home,
Sweet Home,' 'My Old Kentucky
Home' and 'The Little Gray Home
in the West,' were not written
about tenements or apartments.
They are the expressions of racial longing which find outlet in the living poetry and songs of our people. They were written about an individual abode, alive with the tender associations of childhood, the family life at the fireside, the free out of doors, the independence, the security, and the pride in possession of the family's own home—
the very seat of its being.

"That our people should live in their own homes is a sentiment deep in the heart of our race and of American life. We know that as yet is not universally possible to all. We know that many of our people must at all times live under other conditions. But they never sing songs about a pile of rent receipts. To own one's own home is a physical expression of individualism, of enterprise, of independence and of the freedom of spirit. We do not in our imagination attach to a transitory place that expression about a man's home being his castle, no matter what its constitutional rights may be.

Purpose of Conference.
"But to return to our practical problems. Over 20 committees embracing the collective skill and experience of our country have been voluntarily engaged for the past year in collecting the best of national experience from every part of our country, in collating it into definite recommendation for your consideration.

"Like the solution of all practical problems, the facts first must be discovered; they must be assembled in their true perspective; and the conclusions to be drawn from them must be the inexorable march of logic.

This conference has not been called primarily on legislative questions. Its major purpose is to stimulate individual action. It seeks a better planned use of our nation's resources and resources, especially those that are rooted in neighborliness and mutual help, and those that find expression in our great national voluntary organizations. In our schools and colleges, and in our research laboratories, the conference represents a place in our mastery of the forces that modern science and modern technology place at our disposal.

"It is not to set up Government in the building of homes but to stimulate individual endeavor and make community conditions propitious. The basis of its action is to collate the whole of our experience to date, to establish standards, to advance thought to a new plane from which we may secure a revitalized start upon national progress in the building and owning of homes.

"About a year ago we held in Washington such a conference as this in relation to the health and protection of children. That conference established new standards and a new and higher plane of understanding and action. It presented a set of standards and conclusions, and those conclusions I am informed, have now been printed in literally millions of copies—through the associations which

NORWEGIAN CHEMIST AND WIFE ANNOUNCE FINDING VITAMIN C

They Say They Have Isolated Anti-Scorbutic Element and Can Produce It.

By the Associated Press.
STOCKHOLM, Dec. 3.—Ottar Rygh, Norwegian chemist and scientific research worker at the University of Upsala, announced today his discovery of vitamin C and a method for its production.
His wife, Dr. Asgot Rygh, received credit as co-discoverer.

Prof. Rygh was assistant for two years to Prof. Adolph Windhaus in Göttingen in a search for vitamin D.
Swedish medical experts hailed Rygh's discovery as a brilliant scientific triumph of great value.
One of the effects, it was said,
would be the possibility of 'practically wiping out the disease of scurvy.

Isolation of the pure vitamin D was announced last week by Prof.
Windhaus who succeeded in isolating the crystal after four years of research. The physiological effects of vitamin D are the same as those of sunshine and three-billionths of a gramme of the pure crystal is sufficient to relieve rickets. One fifty-thousandth of a gramme is poisonous. The pure crystal isolated by Windhaus was obtained by use of certain rays of "artificial sunshine."

VINCENT D'INDY, COMPOSER, DIES SUDDENLY IN PARIS

One of Early Revolutionists in French Music Stricken in Home at Age of 80.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Dec. 3.—Vincent D'Indy, 80 years old, composer, died suddenly last night at his home here.
He composed songs, piano, sonatas and chamber music as well as several symphonies. One of his best known works is the symphonic overture "Wallenstein," published in 1882.

In 1910 he was appointed professor at the National Conservatory of Music. He had been working steadily on a book about Wagner's "Parsifal."

D'Indy, one of the early revolutionists in French music was a pupil of Cesar Franck. He made concert tours until very recently, conducting orchestras in his own and other works. His early musical studies were interrupted by the Franco-Prussian War of 1870 which he served as an infantryman.
His first opera "Le Chant de Cloche" (Song of the Bell) was produced in Brussels in 1897 and in the following year at Paris.

gation at the world disarmament

ary, although pressure of domestic business at home may prevent his remaining long.

No public announcement has been made of the Chancellor's intention, but that he would go was

DECLARES DRY LAW AT WORST BETTER THAN WET REGIME

The Rev. Daniel A. Poling Speaks at Final Meeting of Three-Day Prohibition Rally.

DOUBTS CANADIAN PLAN WILL SURVIVE

Council to Be Formed in St.
Louis to Support Statute —Organization Session
in Two Weeks.

An Allied Citizens' Council, for support of the prohibition laws, will be organized in St. Louis as the result of the three-day rally of the dry forces at Third Baptist Church, which ended last night.
Arthur T. Morey heads the temporary executive committee, which will call an organization meeting within the next two weeks. Many of those attending the rally signed cards committing them to the work of the new organization.

The Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, leader of youth movements and noted radio preacher, spoke to an audience of 1600 at the final meeting. The total attendance for the three days, at afternoon and night meetings, was about 7000.

"In the field of enforcement," Dr.
Poling said, "conditions are steady-ly better. The leadership of Col.
Woodcock and his associates is getting results. For certain of the wet days, at afternoon and night
meetings, was about 7000.

"We do not believe that prohibition is the only issue or that candidates or parties should be nominated and elected merely because they favor the eighteenth amendment. We must face the problems of poverty and unemployment. We must accept our share of the economic burden. We must go forward unitedly to destroy war and to perfect the 'achinery of peace.'

Denies Corruption of Youth.
"Prohibition has not corrupted youth. American youth are not corrupt. Allowing for all cases of juvenile delinquency, the young men and young women of this generation are as intrinsically fine and worthy as young people ever have been. Already hundreds of thousands of these young people have enlisted in this allied campaign.

"We believe in the eighteenth amendment, because we believe in America on the march and that the highest conservation is not the conservation of forests, rivers and minerals, but the conservation of men, women and children.
"We do not believe that all God's children are on our side. We recognize the fact that there are honest and patriotic citizens who are opposed to our position. We shall strive to lift our campaign above personalities. In the advocacy of our cause we shall seek to advance good will.

"We do not believe that prohibition is the only issue or that

nominated and elected merely be-

amendment. We must face the problems of poverty and unemployment. We must accept our share of the economic burden. We
must go forward unitedly to destroy war and to perfect the 'a-
chinery of peace.'

Dr. Poling cited figures to show that there were nearly 6300 places where liquor was illegally sold in New York in 1916, and argued that "prohibition did not create the speakeasy," it uncovered it.
He said that the Canadian plan had resulted in a doubling of that country's pre-war liquor bill, and more than doubling the convictions for violation in the last nine years.

"The Canadian plan can never be made a substitute for the eighteenth amendment, and we do not believe it will survive in Canada," the speaker said. He talked of the employment phase of the proposal to legalize beer, saying that drug store employees and persons employed in making and vending soft drinks would be menaced by the return of any form of liquor license.

"Authorities on dairying tell us that there are 5,000,000 more cows employed under prohibition," Dr.
Poling said. "I am for cows." In another part of his address, he spoke of prohibition legislation as "not an automatic machine, but a tool."

In his afternoon address, on the topic "Give Youth a Square Deal," Dr. Poling said of the anti-prohibition resolution passed by the American Legion at Detroit:
"I regret the action taken by the American Legion. I believe it is fundamentally unsound. I know that tens of thousands of legionaires are against it. But I do not question the right of the American Legion to take this action, and I resent the charge of general drunkkenness. That charge is not justified by facts. Slander is a two-edged sword, and it cuts deepest those who use it."

Oliver W. Stewart of Chicago, a prohibition campaigner for many years, spoke on the same program.
"The adoption of the eighteenth amendment did not end the fight, and was never intended to," he said. "It put us in line for the beginning of the final effort. Then this calamity befell us: Our people, mistaking the means for the end, believing the battle was over, proceeded to disband their organizations, allowed the newspapers which had espoused the cause to die and generally they turned their attention to other things.
"Our opponents, observing this

"Let's Have It Out," Says
Borah, Friend of Prohibition—Wets Undecided on Manner of Getting Test.

SHEPPARD FOR MORE STRINGENT STATUTE

Plan Is to Put Question Out of Way So Members Can Tackle Economic Problems of Nation.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Congressional dry leaders yesterday accepted the challenge of the wets for a showdown on prohibition at the approaching session.

"Let's have it out," said Senator Borah of Idaho, a champion of prohibition.

As he spoke, leaders of both parties in the Senate and House expressed willingness to throat out the controversy. All emphasized, however, that the attention of the new Congress would be directed principally to economic problems.

It was agreed that any roll call would show the drys in control.
But all believed it would be beneficial to accede to pleas of modificationists that members of Congress be put on record.

Readiness to vote on prohibition is coupled by Senator Norris with a feeling that it's "a waste of time to think this Congress is going to repeal or modify" the law. He expressed it that way today as chairman of the Judiciary Commis-tee, which holds the key to prohibition legislation in the Senate.

Referring to opponents of the eighteenth amendment, the Nebraskan said: "If they want a vote, all right. But let us not waste a lot of time. I am ready to vote in five minutes."

"I want something to take the place of the eighteenth amendment before I will vote to submit its repeal to the people. Nothing has been suggested. We would just have chaos with repeal."

In just what form the challenge to prohibition will be presented is uncertain.

Some of the wet leaders are rallying behind a proposal for a referendum on repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Two-Thirds Needed for Repeal.
It takes a two-thirds vote of Congress to submit a repeal amendment to state conventions, as proposed by Senator Bingham (Rep.), Connecticut.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

Raymond Robins and the Constitution.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In his defense of prohibition, Raymond Robins points out that Abraham Lincoln upheld slavery, and the return of fugitive slaves, because the Constitution required that fugitive slaves should be returned to their masters. Robins says that Lincoln, "who was giving his life to overthrow the institution of human slavery, upheld the integrity of the Constitution when it seemed to run counter to the most precious rights of human liberty." Robins says further that Lincoln "legally took slavery out of it." But he did not. He abolished slavery by a proclamation of emancipation in 1863 as a war measure, leaving the slavery clause still in the Constitution. That clause, paragraph 3, section 2, of Article 4, is still in the Constitution. It reads:

"No person held to service or labor in one state, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due."

This part of the Constitution is still in force, though the abolition of slavery by Lincoln as war dictator was in direct opposition to its edict. I agree with Mr. Robins in the hope that the prohibition amendment may be legally changed. If at all, and that it will not have to be nullified because the people are not allowed to express their will regarding it. Lincoln was no worshiper of the Constitution as such. He was devoted to the idea of preserving the Union. But when he found that slavery stood in the way, he did not advocate taking the fugitive slave law out of the Constitution, but, ignoring it, he used his power as a conqueror to give it a death blow.

A Capricious Dame.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I READ with interest the letter complaining of the St. Louis forecaster and the mistakes which have been made during the past three months. I have observed these forecasts myself, and can vouch for the large percentage of inaccuracy.

While I agree with the facts, I think your correspondent is hard on the forecaster. He should remember that forecasters follow rules formulated by meteorologists. He should also remember the story of the forecaster who was discharged because of his great accuracy. When his predictions were correct in over 90 per cent of the cases, the department discharged him on the ground that "he was giving instead of forecasting the rules." If we ever personified the weather, we would speak of it as "she," changeable, capricious and uncertain. MAZYCK P. RAVENEL, M. D. Columbia, Mo.

A Still Brighter Idea.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE country should get behind the proposal of one of our prohibitionists to stamp out prohibition by starting a buyers' strike. Unquestionably 100 per cent buyers' strike, in which even the prohibitionists would join, would stop the wholesale violations of the eighteenth amendment overnight, and turn the bootleggers from their wicked ways. If further plans may still be proposed, however, I have a better one, because it strikes more thoroughly at the fundamentals of the situation. Let us have, not a buyers' strike, but a sellers' strike. Let our bootleggers join to a man in a wholesale agreement, starting, say, on Jan. 1, not to sell any more liquor, even to prohibitionists. That will stop the thing at once.

In other words, let us stop this wholesale violation of the eighteenth amendment by preventing any further contravention of the prohibition laws. Get it? What do you think? A. SELLER.

A Tribute to Dr. James.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE International Mark Twain Society wishes to pay its tribute to the memory of George Oscar James of Washington University. For a quarter of a century, he has been a shining example of true scholarship, ripe wisdom, generous and affable manners, to countless young men and women. Chaucer's description of the clerk of Oxenford may well be applied to Dr. James:

Of studie took he most cure and most hede.

Nought o word spak he more than was neede.

And that was seyde in forme and reverence,

And short and quik, and ful of hy sentence.

Souninge in moral vertu was his speche,

And gladly wolde he lerne, and gladly teche.

THE WABASH RECEIVERSHIP.

The Wabash receivership was precipitated by the depression, during which its business has steadily declined.

The road's gross earnings in 1929 were $76,000,000. They fell to $62,000,000 in 1930, and for the first eight months of the current year slumped to $34,800,000, as compared with $42,500,000 for the corresponding period of the year before.

So, too, necessarily, with the net income, which in 1929 was $7,854,000, dropped to $3,781,000 in 1930, and this year disappeared, showing for the first six months of 1931 a deficit of $1,789,000.

Traffic experts attribute the shrinkage in revenue to the curtailed production in the automobile industry, which formerly furnished a large and profitable tonnage for the Wabash. This loss of business was aggravated by the fact that the automobile industry, like many others, is utilizing other transportation agencies. It is delivering its products in trailers and "on their own power," a practice which is knocking all railroads, but which hit the Wabash a knock-out blow.

It is evident, of course, that no practicable advance in rates, no concession from the Interstate Commerce Commission, would have enabled the Wabash to carry on. It is apparent, too, that no such method of relief will cure the difficulties which beset all the railroads.

Depression or no depression, the transportation industry is in a state of transition. Evolution is at work. Nothing can stop it. The automobile is here. The bus, the truck, the pleasure car, itself serving important business requirements, are bound to progress in efficiency and utility. We shall continue to build highways, wider and better. The revival of the rivers, and the airplane, with its future all ahead of it, emphasize a situation which will require a complete reorganization of the transportation industry.

CHARGES OF PEONAGE.

Can it be that the millions of dollars devoted by the Government to flood control works have become the root of peonage and brutal practices against laborers? This is the charge made by investigators for the American Federation of Labor. They send from the Lower Mississippi region accounts of men held in "hideous slavery," of 4000 workers who have become virtual serfs, of miserly pay, and that frequently withheld; of exorbitant payroll deductions for commissary accounts, of floggings and assaults. Federal appropriations, designed to help the unemployed while benefiting the river region, would indeed be put to sorry use should these charges of degrading and exploiting labor by holders of Government contracts be sustained.

Major-General Lytle Brown of the Army engineers, in charge of the work, says he doubts the correctness of the charges. "If there is any peonage, cruelty or exploitation, it has not come to my notice," he says. He will investigate any specific charges, and will not tolerate such abuses if they are found to exist. These are not direct denials, of course, and indicate a willingness to seek out the truth. On the other side, the labor investigators say they are prepared with names, places and other definite data. An inquiry by the War Department, or one sponsored by Congress, is in order. Such charges from such a quarter demand an official inquiry, and the protection of American labor from any possible greedy exploitation cries aloud for it.

SUPPOSE WE FOUGHT TIBET.

Gen. Smedley Butler has his depression panacea, too, and he guarantees it no whit sillier than hosts of others. Having observed the prosperity that goes with war, Gen. Butler suggests a war. To economize on lives, however, he would make it painless by choosing Tibet as the enemy. We would need some allies, of course, and they would want to buy some wheat, so that would solve the Farm Board's problem right away. Ocean carriers in war-time are forever getting sunk, and the necessary replacements would send shipbuilding into another glorious boom. Of course, the Tibetans have no navy and couldn't really sink any ships, so Gen. Butler would merely set up a weekly quota of vessels to be theoretically sunk. Munition and other factories would go to work on 24-hour schedules, thereby rendering unemployment extinct. The munitions they turned out would be shot at the Tibetans or dumped into the sea, boosting business in either case. Affluent workers and our allies would buy other products.

No doubt it would be a delightful and prosperous war, with no hard feelings on either side. But our allies would demand the customary reparations of Tibet, and the impoverished Great Lama would call around to borrow of our bankers. And when the bankers locked their vaults on him, and Tibet warned it could meet no more installments, and our devoted allies threatened to quit paying their bills for wheat, munitions and loans, and we liked our tariffs, and everybody else did the same—well, we would be right back in the doldrums of 1931. So perhaps we had better hang on to the old, familiar depression, and not trade it in on a new one.

WE LIKE BANDS.

Streamlining will result in speedier automobiles and trains, engineers say. Perhaps they can tell us where a pedestrian, in self-defense, can go to get a good job of personal streamlining.

THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF MUSICIANS HAS PROTESTED AGAINST THE NAVY'S "CONTUMPTUOUS DISREGARD OF THE LAW" IN PERMITTING THE USE OF NAVY BANDS AT PRIVATE ENTERTAINMENTS, TO THE FINANCIAL LOSS OF PROFESSIONAL MUSICIANS, WHO MIGHT OTHERWISE HAVE BEEN EMPLOYED.

The point is well taken if, as charged, the bands are called on to play for purely personal dances, card parties and other affairs where someone in high places has the necessary "pull" to obtain a service band for the event. As the musicians advocate, the laws should be strengthened to prevent such abuses.

But Congress should not go too far, as it is to be feared the musicians themselves have done on occasion. There are certain public events, without direct gain to the promoters or other participants, in which the appearance of our service bands not only is perfectly proper, but is something the taxpayers have a right to expect. At St. Louis' annual Velled Prophet parade, visitors almost invariably note the absence of service, school and fraternal bands, with their color and cadence. How much better it would be to have one large professional band, augmented by volunteer and service organizations, as was the case in the Armistice day parade.

Some time ago a movement was undertaken to halt the tours of the Army, Navy and Marine bands on the assumption that their concerts were keeping local musicians out of work. This theory seems unsound. There is nothing to indicate that a local or traveling professional band would appear in place of the service organizations, while it is quite certain that the concerts cultivate the taste and interest of the public in band music, to the eventual gain of the professional artists.

FOR A PERMANENT CONDEMNATION BOARD.

The need for a permanent board of condemnation commissioners, to pass on street widenings and other public improvements, is recognized by the special aldermanic committee appointed by President Neun to study condemnation procedure. While no vote was taken, an unofficial poll shows five members of the committee in favor of a permanent board. Under the present system, each project has a set of three commissioners, appointed by the Circuit Judge in charge of the case. Even if the commissions were always wisely awarded, which has not been true, the lack of co-ordination among the numerous commissions is an insurmountable obstacle to a smoothly working system.

St. Louis has had numerous examples of the faults of our condemnation system, and by this time should be heartily in favor of a change. For 11 years, the city has been trying to eliminate the traffic bottleneck on Lindell boulevard, between Channing and Grand, and in that time four different commissions have sat on the case. Last November, the city rejected the findings of the third commission, denouncing its work as slipshod. A fourth commission was appointed, and its findings were even less acceptable than the third's. The bottleneck remains. Awards made by the commission in the Hall's Ferry-Good-fellow circle case were denounced by Comptroller Nolte as a "damned outrage." Attorney for some of the property owners in this proceeding was Raymond Hartmann, son of the Judge who appointed the commission. After the Morgan street widening-commissioners had consumed 800 meetings to complete their work, their findings were so bad that the City Law Department, by direct negotiation, was successful in scaling $119,000 from damage awards.

These and other incidents prove that the present system must be replaced. Commission appointments are juicy plums for the Circuit Judges to distribute among their friends and political supporters, but the fruit has become overripe. By Charter amendment, the voters can set up a commission of well paid experts to devote their entire time to the lagging program of public improvements. We trust the aldermanic special committee will support the drafting and submission of such an amendment.

"MOST VITRIOLIC."

John K. Winkler, a biographer, who specializes in stripping the rich of their halos, has just done Andrew Carnegie in a book which he calls "Incredible Carnegie." Quite naturally, much space is given to the bloody Homestead steel strike and its reflection upon Carnegie's reputation as a friend of labor. "Most vitriolic of press comments was an editorial in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch," Winkler writes, and then quotes the editorial in full.

"Ten thousand Carnegie public libraries would not compensate the country for the direct and indirect evils resulting from the Homestead lockout," that editorial concludes. "Say what you will of Frick (then in active command of the steel company's operations), he is a brave man. Say what you will of Carnegie (who had retreated to his estate in Scotland), he is a coward. And gods and men hate cowards." That seems not so much "vitriolic" as just plain, straightforward speaking. America today could stand more plain talk, less mincing, less dodging, less evasion of harsh realities, less hypocrisy. There is evidence that the public is more than ready to hear the unvarnished truth.

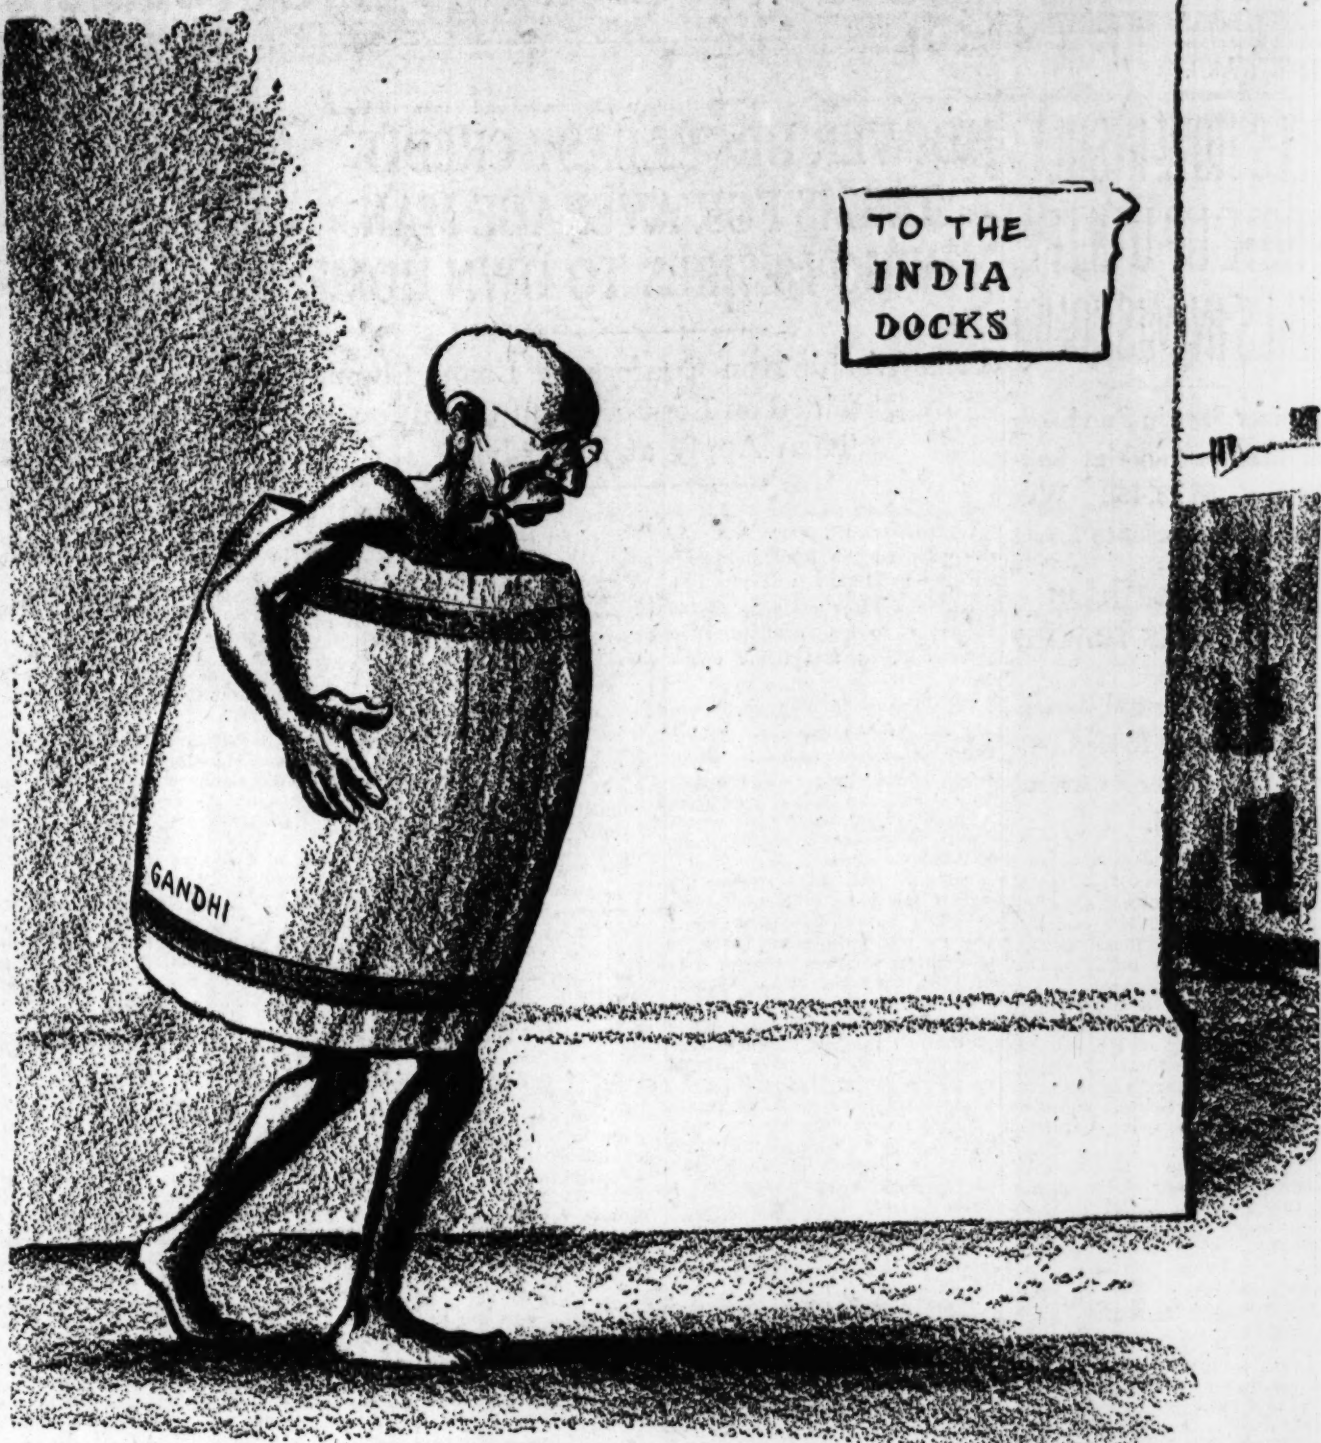

ST. WASHINGTON'S SYNTHETIC HALO.

The George Washington bicentennial, to be celebrated nationally next year, promises to be a battle royal between the respective backers of fairy tales and facts. One school will seize the occasion to apotheosize the first President, to give full credence and even enhance the wealth of legend that has sprung up about him. The other faction will accept the anniversary as inspiration for historical delving, for digging out the elusive facts lost in the mists of two intervening centuries. One round of this entertaining match already is in progress, between F. Dumont Smith, Hutchinson (Kan.) lawyer, and Albert Bushnell Hart, Harvard historian. Mr. Smith thinks Washington was far too noble to swear occasionally, as Prof. Hart stated in a pamphlet, and denies that he ever received a cent of salary, repudiating the historian's statement that he was paid.

The surest way for a writer to encounter a storm of protest is to discover or publish something about a national hero that removes the halo of perfection. When Rupert Hughes wrote of Washington's wine drinking and indulgence at gambling games (with Washington's diary as authority), he was assailed as a committer of sacrilege. Prof. Hart is similarly under fire for finding in Washington an eighteenth century soldier who shared the characteristics of his times, and a laborer who felt he was worthy of his hire. These disclosures need not remove an iota of Washington's glory, and only those who would make him over into a pink god will object. If the anniversary is to be an occasion for moralizing, even that can be done with greater effect if a human being with some share of human frailties is taken as the subject, rather than a figure of inimitable perfection.

GRANTING MR. GILLETTE AN EXTENSION.

Those who spellbound through William Gillette's return to Baker street two years ago—and they were legion in every city visited—will readily grant the veteran actor a continuation of his farewell tour. With many a figure of the stage, farewell tours have been annual affairs, and frequently of dubious value. In the case of Sherlock Holmes—for Mr. Gillette and that imperturbable detective of chill, foggy London nights and damp, danger-fraught cellars are one and the same—reappearance behind the footlights was an entirely different matter. Age had left his tall frame as erect as ever. His step was the same sure step and his clear voice spoke the same calm commands that held in thrall the playgoers of the century's turn. And so, if the passing months have been as kind as were the intervening years, the indolent sleuth of that sea-coast warmed room in dreary Baker street will be on the road again, making us all, as Booth Tarkington so aptly observed, as happy as children at Christmas. That, indeed, is a pleasant prospect.

False and True Paths to Peace

African war, costing hundreds of lives, started over stolen pig; most conflicts have similar trivial causes; disarmament alone is no cure, for these natives fought without modern weapons; superior force interfered there, but League of Nations has no power to take this step; brotherly love thus is the real necessity for peace.

From the Belleville (Ill.) Messenger.

IT was a costly pig that somebody stole somewhere in Portuguese Guinea, one of the west coast of Africa. Hundreds of Negroes were killed recently on account of that pig. Heaps of human bodies were found under the smoldering ruins of burned native huts. We don't know how it all started, except that somebody stole a dirty pig, and then the war began, between two tribes who didn't like each other any too well to begin with.

A more complete report might inform us that one man stole a pig, that the owner of the pig went after him with a club, that the pig had already been roasted and was being consumed by a jolly crowd of friends and neighbors of the thief, that the owner of the pig was abused by the jolly crowd, that he went back to his own tribe and gathered a band of men for a punitive expedition, that the jolly crowd got word of it and collected an army of its own, that the owner's party mobilized a still bigger force, that one battle was fought and then another, that whole villages were burned and hundreds of men, women and children destroyed, either by arms or by fire—all because somebody stole a dirty pig.

Most wars start about the same way. Somebody either steals a pig, or kidnaps a woman, or shoots a Crown Prince, or refuses to pay his debts, or splits on a flag, or removes his fence beyond the line, and then his friends and neighbors go on the war path in order to punish the thief, kidnaper, murderer, debtor, fence-mover and his friends and allies.

One thing is necessary before war can start properly. The two parties must bear a grudge beforehand. They must know that there is danger of a conflict. Their minds must be prepared for war, and they must feel that it is advisable to keep their powder dry.

Disarmament, after all, seems to be the only effective means to prevent war. Armaments consist chiefly in big guns and machine guns, battleships and submarines, airplanes and poison gases, munition factories and trained armies, and plenty of money. Disarmament consists in doing away with these things.

But there is a difficulty. Those Negro tribes in Portuguese Guinea had neither money nor munition factories, neither standing armies nor poison gases, neither submarines nor battleships, neither big guns nor machine guns, and yet they had a war, a real war, in which hundreds of men were slaughtered or burned to death in their huts. Those Negroes didn't need battleships and airplanes and machine guns for a war. Probably they used clubs, knives, stones and ancient muskets abandoned by Portuguese pirates and slave dealers. One sort of weapon they did use, and that was fire, and they made mightily effective use of it.

That reminds us. There have been wars before in which fire was used to good effect. Gen. Sherman used plenty of fire in his march to the sea. The old Romans set fire to the camps and cities of their enemies. Our own American Indians had a weakness for fire. Warships were set on fire in former times. Liquid fire was a powerful weapon once upon a time. We can imagine a war in which laden gasoline tank wagons, hundreds at a time, driven by men willing to sacrifice their own lives, rush into a big city and are exploded by their own drivers. What will disarmament amount to if fire is not disarmed? We ourselves would much rather be shot down by a French 75 than be roasted alive in our private offices. With genuine conviction, we offer that suggestion to the forthcoming great disarmament conference of Geneva. Disarm fire and all the evil things connected with fire. No nation will be safe as long as any other is permitted to use fire in warfare.

We read that the Portuguese Government had some 4000 Negroes of one of the fighting tribes arrested, transferred to a small island near the coast and deposited there for safe-keeping. That's another bright idea. We suggest that this same thing be done with the Japanese in Manchuria. Have every blessed one of them arrested, bind them hand and foot and deposit them on the original Japanese islands for safe-keeping.

However, and there's the rub, on whom shall we call to arrest the Japanese in Manchuria? The Chinese police force is inadequate. The Russians are too busy with their five-year plan to take time off for the job. Uncle Sam seems indisposed. Great Britain has cramps in the stomach. In the pocketbook and in India. France is not at all inclined to cause Japan any annoyance. Is there nobody, then, to handle the Japanese?

Hold on. There is somebody. The League of Nations is still with us. Why didn't we think of the League right away? The League shall tell those confounded Japs where to get off.

The League of Nations opened its mouth and spoke to Japan. All the world listened. But Japan closed her ears. The League ordered the Japanese to withdraw their military forces within a stated time. It was a risky thing for the League to do. Unless the League was prepared to use force, it was unlikely that Japan would heed the League's order.

Japan knew that the League was not prepared to use force. The League's order was disregarded. Under present circumstances, the League evidently does not possess the superior force which the Portuguese could employ against the Negro tribe.

There will be circumstances when the League's orders will be obeyed. But, under different circumstances, they will not be obeyed. Japan refused to obey, because there is no way to compel her to obey. The League may try to give orders to France next year at the disarmament conference. Will France obey? It is more than doubtful.

Those Negro tribes in Portuguese Guinea would never have gone to war if they had not borne a previous grudge against each other. France and Italy would not be in danger of war if neither nation felt unkindly toward the other. Indeed, we always have come back to the law of brotherly love. Disarmament and leagues will amount to very little until brotherly love becomes the superior force for the enforcement of peace. When will that be?

Rainey of Illinois

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

IF Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Illinois wins the position of Democratic floor leader in the House of Representatives, it will add to the spectacular interest of the Washington show.

Unless Mr. Rainey has dieted even more successfully than Chief Justice Taft did, his huge form and its comfortable covering must weigh nearer 300 than 200 pounds. It is capped by a massive head and a heavy, unruly mop of hair, making him one of the conspicuous House figures. A voice of unusual power rounds out a striking physical equipment.

House leaders are not selected, however, by weight or lung power, and Mr. Rainey can point to other qualifications. With the exception of a single term—to which extent Mr. Garner of Texas, probably the next speaker, has the advantage of him—Mr. Rainey has served in the House continuously since 1903. For much of that time he has been a diligent member of the Ways and Means Committee, and the fact that the Republicans have been in control, with the exception of eight years from 1911 to 1919, has not prevented him from registering views on the tariff which are now likely to find easier expression than at times in the past.

In the full flush of a Republican high tariff regime during the Roosevelt administration, Mr. Rainey once managed to stage a field day in the House of Representatives with charges that under the Republican schedules American manufacturers were "dumping" their products at lower prices to consumers abroad. The particular articles with which he chiefly dealt were watches. With a dramatic ability which he doubtless still cultivates against appropriate occasions, he gave a temporary national fame to "Keene of Lower Broadway," a shrewd jeweler who had found that he could reimport American watches sold abroad and profitably resell them at less than the listed prices to the American consumer.

Probably Mr. Rainey got more fun out of the "Keene of Lower Broadway" episode than he has had on any other day of his 26 years of congressional service. Possibly he will never get as much fun again, for the post of floor leader for the majority, however small the majority, will carry with it responsibilities and perplexities which the carefree members of a relatively small minority—the Democratic position through most of the Roosevelt era—escape.

HOOVER'S ECONOMY PROGRAM

From the Chicago Daily News.

THE President seeks public approval of his policy of drastic economy. He has it, and it should have it, but, as he points out, the trouble is that demands for retrenchment do not prevent political cliques from advocating their pet projects involving new expenditures. True friends of economy will combat all dubious proposals for additional Government appropriations. They will distinguish between economy that does away with waste, red tape, duplication and unwarranted activities, and so-called economy which deprives the nation of indispensable services. A sound program of national economy is certain of business and public support. But it is the duty of the heads of the departments to make the program thoroughly sound.

MUNICIPAL OPERA PA

OFF $30,000 DEF

Final $15,000 Refund Vote
Guarantors Who Met La Season's Shortage.

Checks totaling $15,000 will be mailed shortly by the Municipal Opera Association to 600 guarantee fund subscribers who have good a deficit of $30,000 in 1931. In voting this refund at a meeting yesterday at Hotel Jefferson, the directors of the theater association reimbursed the 1930 guarantee fund with a similar $15,000 refund authorized on Aug. 25. A preliminary report of the 1931 season showed there would be a large enough to cover at least 10 per cent of the previous season's losses.

With the profit of 1931 used to repay the 1930 deficit, the Municipal Opera again assured self-supporting basis. The income from the productions produced from 1919, the first year the association directed, entered through 1931 not only was sufficient to defray all expenses, but also has been paid to the association to develop the Municipal Theater into one of the best and best equipped outdoor theaters in the world.

While there has been a substantial guarantee fund every year, subscribers have been called on to advance funds to losses. The expenses of the season exceeded the income $11,000. The 69 guarantee made good this amount was reimbursed by the association from an accumulated surplus intervening profitable seasons through 1931. The association had small losses of 1928 and 1929, but calling on guarantors for relief.

Now that all matters pertaining to the 1931 season have been closed, the opera directors turn their attention to the next summer. In view of the economic conditions, it will be exercised in preparing a budget. No commitments made until it is determined that the proposed each department are within amount spent last year. A vacancy on the board of directors, caused by the death of Frank H. Hamilton, was filled by the election of M. P. Limer.

MUNICIPAL OPERA PAYS OFF $30,000 DEFICIT

Final $15,000 Refund Voted to Guarantors Who Met Last Season's Shortage.

Checks totaling $15,000 will be mailed shortly by the Municipal Theater Association to 600 guarantors who made good a deficit of $30,000 in 1930.

In voting this refund at a meeting yesterday at Hotel Jefferson, the directors of the theater association, the 1930 guarantors received a similar $15,000 refund as authorized on Aug. 25 when a preliminary report of the 1931 season showed there would be a profit large enough to cover at least 50 percent of the previous season's loss.

With the profit of 1931 being used to repay the 1930 deficit, Municipal Opera again assumes a self-supporting basis. The total income from the productions presented from 1919, the first year of the centrally directed enterprise, through 1931 not only has been sufficient to defray all expenses of 19 seasons, but also has permitted the association to develop the Municipal Theater into one of the finest and best equipped outdoor stadiums in the world.

While there has been a substantial guarantee fund every year, subscribers have been called on only twice to advance funds to cover losses. The expenses of the first season exceeded the income by $11,000. The 69 guarantors who made good this amount were reimbursed by the association in 1922 from an accumulated surplus of intervening profitable seasons. Successful seasons through 1927 enabled the association to meet the small losses of 1928 and 1929 without calling on guarantors for financial aid.

Now that all matters pertaining to the 1931 season have been concluded, the opera directors will turn their attention to plans for next summer. In view of prevailing economic conditions, great care will be exercised in preparing a budget. No commitments will be made until it is determined definitely that the proposed expenses of each department are within the amount spent last year.

A vacancy on the board of directors, caused by the death of Frank H. Hamilton, was filled by the election of M. P. Limer Linna.

CULBERTSON SYSTEM BEATEN IN TEST PLAY

Followers of "Official" Rules for Contract Bidding Win by 452 at M. A. A.

The Culbertson system of contract bridge play went down to defeat last night in a special match at the Missouri Athletic Association, won by players of the "official" system, with a narrow margin of 452 points.

The match, one of the features of the M. A. A.'s winter contract tournament, was arranged in response to requests of players of both systems who were anxious to see them tried out in tournament play.

Eleven teams of two players each represented each system. The match was played, as are all matches in the winter tournament, at duplicate, which means that during the course of an evening's play the same hands are played at every table, the hands arranged beforehand and placed in duplicate boards to be distributed to the tables.

High teams for the "official" system were E. F. Brownback and E. D. Schmitt, and Ernest Moser and Robert Purcell. Runners-up were Richard Bockenkamp and Dr. G. W. Hauke and L. C. Vogel and W. H. Karges.

High scorers for the Culbertson system were Mrs. E. F. Spencer and Mrs. E. M. Jennings, and Mrs. Carl Angell and Mrs. J. B. Suttles. Runners-up were J. K. Peach and F. M. See and J. B. Suttles and Carl Angell.

FUNERAL FOR MAX FRITZ

Civil War Veteran, 89, Died Yesterday.

Funeral services for Max Fritz, 89 years old, a retired tobacco manufacturer and Civil War veteran who died yesterday of the infirmities of age, will be held at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon from the Schumacher funeral chapel, 3013 Meramec street, to St. Pius Catholic Church, Grand boulevard and Utah place. Burial will be in St. Peter and Paul's cemetery.

Mr. Fritz, who was born in Germany, was president of the M. Fritz & Sons Cigar and Tobacco Co. from the time it was founded in 1891 until it went out of business in 1927. He served in the Fortieth Missouri Infantry in the Civil War. Surviving him are five sons, two daughters, 11 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

JUNIOR HOSTESS

MISS BLANCHE and Miss Helen Adams, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Adams of the Park Plaza, made their debut today at a luncheon given by their mother in the gold banquet room on the mezzanine of the hotel. It was one of the few instances in recent seasons when sisters were presented to society at the same time.

Mrs. Adams and her daughters received their guests on the mezzanine, where flowers were the decorations. Miss Helen Adams wore a gown of brown chiffon velvet designed with a cape collar edged with mink, with which she wore a shoulder corsage of deep purple orchids. Miss Blanche Adams' gown was of black chiffon velvet, fashioned with close-fitting black velvet sleeves to the elbow where Juliet puffs of red velvet continued into a red velvet yoke. Her flowers were pale orchids. Mrs. Adams wore an afternoon gown of black crepe with sleeves of chateau green.

The guests were seated at a large oval table, adorned with three great clusters of Joanna Hill roses and yellow chrysanthemums arranged with asparagus fern. An orchestra played during the afternoon.

The guests were Miss Virginia Cave, Miss Anne Gruner, Miss Betty Weston, Miss Elizabeth Peters, Miss Anne Rumpf, Miss Marie Ball, Miss Mary Louise Aid, Miss Elizabeth Niemeyer, Miss Mary D. Shipley, Miss Helen Hemingway, Miss Mary Belland Tausig, Miss Marion Tiers, Miss Mettie Taylor, Miss Ellen Walsh, Miss Marjorie McKittick, Miss Lucas Hart, Miss Helen D'Arcy, Miss Anne Tyler, Miss Harriette Harvey, Miss Catherine McKay, Miss Frances Bogher, Miss Jane Frances Smith, Miss Virginia Harris, Mrs. Lee Langan and Mrs. Quentin Just. Col. and Mrs. James O'Malley-Davies landed in New York yesterday morning on the Aquitania and will come to St. Louis Saturday afternoon to open Mrs. O'Malley-Davies' home at 24 Washington terrace. This is their first visit here since their marriage in London a few months ago, and they will remain here six months. Mrs. O'Malley-Davies was Mrs. Grace Moon McDonald.

Miss Alita Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Davis, 13 Westmoreland place, returned on the same boat after a visit to her aunt, Mrs. Dwight Filley Davis, wife of the Governor-General of the Philippines, in Paris.

Miss Henriette Pirrung, debutante daughter of Mr. Clifford W. Gaylord, 816 South Hanley road, will entertain a small group of debutantes and their escorts at an informal dinner tomorrow night at her home. The guests will be Miss

Mr. and Mrs. Chris J. Muckerman of Oakwood drive, Webster Groves, and Mrs. Sol W. Gross, 4044 Lindell boulevard, have sent out invitations for a dance to be given in honor of their daughters, Miss Stella Muckerman and Miss Joy Gross, the night of Dec. 28 at the Glen Echo Country Club. Miss Gross is a student at the Academy of the Sacred Heart and Miss Muckerman attends Villa Duchesne.

The National Society, Colonial Dames of America in the State of Missouri, will give a dinner tonight at the St. Louis Woman's Club, followed by a lecture by Paul W. Stach of Washington, whose subject will be "George Washington and the Historic Potomac." The party has been arranged in the honor of George Washington, the two hundredth anniversary of whose birth will occur next year.

The guests will include the officers of Jefferson Barracks and their wives who will be seated at one table as the guests of Mrs. Oscar Johnson, president of the Woman's Club. Mrs. William Bagwell, Mrs. Benton H. Pollock, State president of the Colonial Dames, will entertain Mr. Wistach and about 30 Colonial Dames and their husbands. Harwood, under direction of Harold H. Elbert. The cast includes Jeanette Anderson, R. D. Hawes and Mr. Elbert. The competition will be judged by Mrs. Austin Parker of the Little Theater of Greensborough, S. C.; Prof. George Ryan of Washington University; Mrs. Grahame-Thatcher, Mrs. Percival Chubb of the Webster Groves Theater Guild and Stephen L. Pitcher of the Board of Education. The second evening of the tournament will take place Dec. 10 at Soldan auditorium.

"A Scrap of Paper," a comedy by Sardou, will be presented by the St. Louis University Playhouse Club in its second production Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The play is an old favorite and occupies an important place in French drama.

The cast follows: Elsie Martin, Mary Alexander, Rita Norton, Mary Adrian, Kathryn Holliday, Ida May Croson, Chester Brackbill, Joseph Orlick, William Jenkins, William Wolter and George Doyle. The play is under the direction of Milton McGovern and the musical program will be furnished by the University Glee Club and Orchestra, Prof. Walter E. von Kalmowski directing.

ROLAND HAYES SINGS IN RECITAL AT ODEON

Negro Tenor Adds Another Artistic Triumph to His Concert Career.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

ROLAND HAYES, the Negro tenor, registered another artistic and popular success at the Odeon last night when he gave a song recital before an audience that filled the hall. The public response to Hayes' pure and polished art seems to grow from year to year. Whether this means a growth in the public's ability to make a distinction between an artist and a mere singer, is a question. In any case, it is all to the good that a performer such as Hayes should exercise a wide and lasting command over the generality of concert-goers.

Hayes' program was long, varied and of more than ordinary musical merit. His opening number, a Mozart aria, was not especially congenial to his voice, and it was not until he reached Beethoven's "Adeleide" that the resources of his art were called into play. Here his identification with the essence of the music was complete. His performance had a depth, a variety of shading and a quivering sentiment that one encounters rarely in the concert hall for the reason that they were produced by a combination of intellect, emotion and technical control that few singers possess or even try to possess. His Schubert and Schumann were also virtually faultless as examples of the composers' character and style.

In fact, the only number on the program which was really bad was his last number, the Negro spiritual, "Were You There?" Hayes' melodramatic exaggerations while singing this song were almost a parody of its simple content. It may sound strange to say that a Negro artist has a better grasp of German lieder than Negro spirituals, but such seems to be the case. And this is not the only paradox which Hayes offers. He is generally referred to as a "great singer," which would imply that his voice is also great. As a matter of fact, he cannot go beyond a mezzo

C. EGERTON WARBURTON WEDS BRIDE OF WANNAMAKER

Grandson of Stage as Louise Garnett.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—C. Egerton Warburton, grandson of the late John Wannamaker, and his bride, the former Mary Louise Hatch of Detroit, were scheduled to sail today from New York on a honeymoon trip to Europe. The marriage, at the home of the bride's parents Tuesday, was disclosed late yesterday at the Warburton home, after Mrs. Warburton had gone to New York to meet her son.

The bridegroom admitted three months ago that he was engaged to Miss Hatch and that he would be married before Christmas. The bride, under the name of Louise Garnett, appeared for a time on Broadway in "Lady Fingers."

Egerton Warburton was divorced from his first wife, the former Elizabeth Fells, last year.

MISS ELSA ARMOUR MARRIED

Becomes Bride of W. Irving Osborne Jr. in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Miss Elsa Armour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour and a debutante of last season, and W. Irving Osborne Jr., were married yesterday in St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Osborne's father, formerly of Kansas City, Mo., came to Chicago several years ago to become associated in business with his cousin, the late J. Ogden Armour.

New One-Act Opera Presented.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—"La Notte di Zorina," new one-act opera by Icaie Montemezz, was presented for the first time in America last night at the Metropolitan Opera House, and received an ovation lasting nearly eight minutes. Rosa Montemezz sang the title role. Mrs. Montemezz, daughter of former Mayor Leith of Asbury Park, N. J., was present. Mario Chisaberti wrote the libretto. The setting is in Peru after flight of the Inca army before invading Spaniards.

voice without suffering a loss of quality, and his voice loses its overtones when it goes above a G. Moreover his method of production is bad, for his tone is always constricted. He would, therefore, seem to lack certain qualifications for being a "great singer." He is a great artist. That should be enough for anybody.

STRATFORD PLAYERS GIVE "KING HENRY"

First Part of Shakespeare's Drama Presented by English Company at American.

KING HENRY THE FOURTH (First part) by Shakespeare, presented by the Stratford players at the American Theater with the following cast:

King Henry the Fourth... Randle Ayrton
Henry, Prince of Wales, son to the King... Eric Maxon
John of Lancaster, son to the King... E. Eric Lee
The Earl of Westmoreland... Gerald Kay Souper
Sir Walter Blunt... Stanley Howlett
Thomas Percy, Earl of Northumberland... Bruno Barnabe
Henry Percy, Earl of Northumberland... C. Rives Gaskoy
Henry Percy, surname Hotspur... Gyles Isham
Mortimer, Earl of March... Gyles Isham
Owen Glendower... John Riddick
The Earl of Douglas... Ernest Hare
The Earl of Hereford... Ernest Hare
Sir John Falstaff... Roy Byford
Gadshill... Francis Drake
Bardolph... Kenneth Wickstead
Neesha, Dr. Caius' daughter... Gyles Isham
Lady Percy, wife to Hotspur and sister to Mortimer... Fania Drake Lady Mortimer, daughter to Glendower and wife to Mortimer... Dorothy Francis Mortimer, Earl of March... E. Eric Lee
Head Tavern, Eastcheap... Ethel Harper

THE Stratford-Upon-Avon Company last night gave "King Henry the Fourth" (Part I), and while they were less successful in this historical venture than in Shakespeare's great tragedies and comedies, they nevertheless deserve all praise for bringing it, after a lapse of more than half a century, to a St. Louis stage.

For it gives a rich, full-blooded picture of England as knighthood closed, in the first glow of the Renaissance. Perhaps it is because they are not weighed with the highest tragedy that in both the "Henry the Fourth" plays interest is centered on those scenes in which Falstaff and his fellows drink and steal and laugh. Here, in a passage between two carter, the railing of the mistakes of the inn, the robbery of the Canterbury pilgrims, one senses the wild, headstrong flow of Elizabethan life.

Roy Byford made an excellent Falstaff and, as one has come to expect from the Stratford company, the acting was almost uniformly good, an exception last night being Eric Maxon's Prince Hal. He scarcely brought the part to life until near the close of the play. Gyles Isham again carried a heavy burden in the role of Hotspur, on

E. E. M'ULLEN DIES AT 46 OF APOPLEXY

Head of Electric Refrigerator and Printing Businesses Succumbs at Home.

Erne E. McMullen, president of the Norge Co. of Missouri and the McMullen Printing Co., died of apoplexy at his home, 40 Broadview drive, Clayton, at 1:30 a. m. today. He was 46 years old.

Mr. McMullen, who had attended a sales meeting at his office last night, complained of illness when he arrived home at 10 o'clock. His wife telephoned a physician, who directed several home remedies, and Mr. McMullen retired. Shortly before 1:30 he awakened his wife, saying he felt worse. She called the doctor again, but before he arrived Mr. McMullen died.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Katie McMullen, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Will Caudie, and his mother, Mrs. T. C. McMullen, Barnsville, O. The funeral probably will be held Saturday.

Mr. McMullen also was vice president of the Norge Corporation of Detroit, president of the Refrigerator Products Co. of Detroit and was a director of the Southwest Bank.

Years ago, he operated a small shoe repair shop and rented space in the rear to a printer who departed one day without paying his rent. Mr. McMullen took over the printing press, learned to set type and began printing handbills. Gradually his printing business expanded until he devoted all his time to it, closing the shoe repair business. Later he invested in the Johnson Automobile Lock Co. and when that had become highly unproductive, sold it and turned to the electric refrigerator business, still maintaining, however, his printing business.

whose fiery temper the plot turns. It is in such a masterpiece, in little, as Ethel Harper made of the role of "Mistress Quickly" that the real virtue of the Stratford company is seen.

A fair-sized audience showed considerable enthusiasm. The play tonight is "Twelfth Night."

HOOVER PROPOSES EASY HOME CREDIT FOR AVERAGE MAN

were interested, through State authorities, and municipal authorities. They have penetrated the thought and permeated the practice of the nation.

"Many conferences have been called by the Governors of many states to consider and apply their conclusions. Their actions have already wielded a powerful influence in the administrative functions of government from the Federal Government down to the smallest community. They have been made the basis of legislative action. They have lifted the sense of public and individual responsibility in the nation. And it is a result of this kind which we are confidently expecting from this conference.

Home Ownership Feasible.

"I notice that some—not the members of these committees—have contended that the development of city and urban life necessarily has driven us to less and less possible ownership of homes. I do not agree with that. The very development of transportation, the advantages of distribution of industry today make the ownership of homes far more feasible and desirable than ever before. But it involves vast problems of city and industrial management which we should have the courage to face. It involves also a great problem of finance. The newly married pair settling out upon the stream of life seldom come to their new state with sufficient resources to purchase or enter upon that great adventure of life of building a home.

Homes and Credit.

"It has long been my opinion that we have fairly creditably solved every other segment of our credit structure more effectively than we have solved this one. In normal times the Federal Reserve System has given mobility to financing of commercial transactions. The agricultural banks and the insurance companies have given mobility to farm credit. The public exchanges have given mobility to the financing of industrial credit through stocks and bonds. Through various discount companies we have established mobility for the sale of automobiles and radio sets and fur coats on the installment plan, where 20 or 25 per cent cash payments are gratefully accepted.

"We have in normal times, through the savings banks, insurance companies, the building and loan associations, and others, provided abundant and mobile finance for 50 per cent of the cost of a home through the first mortgage. "But the definite problem is not presented by those who can find 50 per cent of the cost of a home. Our chief problem in finances relates to those who have an earnest desire for a home, who have a job and therefore possess sound character credit, but whose initial resources run to only 20 or 25 per cent. These people would willingly work and apply all their rent and all their savings to gain for themselves this independence and security and social well being. Such people are a good risk. They are the very basis of stability to the nation.

Credit on Pawnbroker Terms.

"To find a way to meet their need is one of the problems that you have to consider; that is, how we can make a home available for installment purchase on terms that dignify the name credit and not upon terms of risks comparable to the credit extended by a pawnbroker. Our building and loan and many other associations have made an effort to find a solution for this group, but it is as yet largely unorganized and the question substantially unsolved.

"I recently made a public proposal for the creation of a system of home loan discount banks. That proposal is familiar to you, and I will not traverse its details at the present time. It was brought forward partially to meet the situation presented by the present emergency, to alleviate the hardships that exist amongst home owners today, and to revitalize the building of homes as a factor of economic recovery, but in its long-distance view it was put forward in the confidence that through the creation of an institution of this character we could gradually work out the problem of systematically promoted home ownership on such terms of sound finance as people who have the home-owning aspiration deserve in our country.

"There are many other problems involved in your investigations which bear equal importance to the problem of home financing. The surroundings in which such homes are to be built; the very method of their building; transportation and other facilities which must be provided for them; and the protection that must be given to them from the encroachment of commerce and industry. All of these and many other subjects you will compass. You should be in a position when you complete your work to advise our country of new standards and new ideals for our country.

"I wish to express our gratitude, in which I know you will all join, to the hundreds of committee members who have labored so devotedly and capably in preparation for your coming and my confidence of the high results that will flow from your deliberations.

"One of the reports before the conference today proposed universal adoption of the neighborhood type of development. Units running to 150 to 300 acres, supporting 750 to 1500 families, in individual homes, grouped around schools, with shops and amusements at the major traffic intersections, and apartments on broad streets, were the essential of the plan.

"Another committee reported that the country is in the best position to carry out a good housing program. With the rate of population growth, pressure on land has let up; city planning, extension of paved highways have extended the available territory and zoning rules offer better protection to new areas, it was pointed out."

unexpected and apparent desertion of the field on the eve of victory, took on renewed hope. They at once planned a battle by which the liquor traffic might live, though it had to exist as an outlaw. They summoned their forces to the field for the purpose of electing public officials who would either undertake to repeal the law by which the amendment was enforced or to connive with others in its violation. This would substitute anarchy and chaos for orderly society. It would be a hopeless undertaking, and we might laugh at the foes of prohibition who attempt it, were they not so determined and powerful, and were we not so apathetic.

"The crisis approaches. The entire nation will be a battleground for the next year."

BANKRUPT WOOD HEEL FIRM MADE $535,000 ONE YEAR

Manager Tells of Profits Until 1928 When New Competition Caused Slump in Business.

The Mound City Wood Heel and Manufacturing Co. of Fairfield, Ill., formerly of St. Louis, did a profitable business from its organization in 1920 until 1928 when it met keen competition from larger companies. David O. Marshall, manager, testified in Bankruptcy Court Tuesday. The company sold wooden cores of women's high-heeled footwear to shoe manufacturers.

The company, which filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition last July 30, made more than $1,000,000 in the first seven years of existence, Marshall said, showing a profit of $535,000 in 1925, its best year. With the advent of larger companies into the field it began to lose money in 1928 and in 1930 it was operated at a loss of $54,933, he testified.

William B. Grishy of Cincinnati, O., drew no salary as president and lent the company a total of $50,000, for which he has filed claim. Claims totaling $76,563 have been filed by creditors, while assets are listed at about $41,100 in a receiver's report.

The company was moved from 4435 Duncan avenue, St. Louis, in 1930, after citizens of Fairfield had agreed to raise $50,000 for a factory there. The company was capitalized at $100,000.

The other victims were Mrs. Tarasoff and Herbert A. Dague, Y. M. C. A. secretary of Phoenix, and Melville Muller, who arrived in Arizona three weeks ago from Nappanee, Ind., and a young man whose body was not identified. Dr. Tarasoff moved to Phoenix several years ago from Russia.

(Dem.) Maryland, the leader of the House wet bloc, said there were 150 votes for repeal in the House. There never has been an out-and-out roll call on this question, but this is the largest number of votes ever claimed by the wet.

Senator Borah made it clear he was against the referendum proposition. He said he would not vote to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

"I must be satisfied of the wisdom of a provision of the Constitution," he stated, "before I will vote to submit it to the people."

Senator Sheppard (Dem.), Texas, author of the eighteenth amendment, is preparing measures to strengthen the dry law. He would make purchasers of liquor equally guilty with sellers.

The drys have been laughing at us for years," Linthicum said, "but now we have enough votes to wipe the smiles off their faces. We are going to put the wet and dry on record in the coming session."

Getting an antiprohibition bill before the House has been an impossibility but liberalization of the rules to make this step easier is in prospect. Moreover, the attitude of the leaders seems to assure it.

In the Senate, Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, expressed a similar willingness for a prohibition vote although he wanted economic problems to come first.

"The present Senate, in my judgment will vote dry overwhelmingly," Watson said. "As for to program, I favor giving precedence to economic problems but you can't prevent prohibition coming up in the Senate in some form. Personally, I will not stand in the way of a vote on temperance in any way it comes up."

Wood, of Indiana, Republican chairman of the House Appropriations Committee last session, said he had asked Attorney General Mitchell for a statement of the actual cost of prohibition, including the expenses of the courts, of the coast guard and all agencies connected with enforcement or prosecution.

Rule Liberalization Fight.

Republican conferences failed yesterday in a five-hour session to reach an agreement on liberalization of the House rules.

An effort by La Guardia of New York to reduce the number of positioners necessary to bring a bill from a committee to the floor for a direct vote was defeated. La Guardia proposed that the number be changed from 218 to 100.

Representative William E. Hull of Illinois suggested it be placed at 150, but that failed. The proposal of Snell to fix the number at 145 will be taken up today.

Other robberies attributed to the pair are a holdup at a hamburger stand at 5215 Easton avenue early Tuesday and holdups at hamburger stands at Kingshighway and Vandeventer avenue and 1015 North Grand boulevard and at a lunchroom at 4068 Easton avenue early yesterday.

Charles Lum, 320 Market street, was held up in the rear of his laundry at 522 North Vandeventer avenue last night by two men and robbed of $18 and his hat.

Hearing a noise inside the St. Louis University School of Medicine, 1402 South Grand boulevard, early today, Leonard Jurgens, a watchman, investigated and found a Negro who had taken $106 and a small trunk full of cigars and cigarettes from the students' commissary. The Negro told police he was Robert Goldman, a former porter at the school, and that he had been hiding in the building since early yesterday.

About $600 was taken from a safe at the Spot Hardware Co., 5744 West Florissant avenue, last night by persons who opened a front door and broke the combination off a safe. The loss was discovered at 10 o'clock by Arthur Goeddel, manager of the store, who lives on the floor above.

A safe in the office of the La Salle Bottling Co., 3964 Olive street, was damaged $260 last night by burglars who apparently were frightened away after they knocked the combination from the safe and were attempting to open a strong box inside. TEST FOR DETECTING CANCER IN FIRST STAGE

Biochemist Tells of Procedure
Said to Be 92 Per Cent Accurate.

(Copyright, 1931.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—Discovery of a chemical test that has been 92 per cent accurate in diagnosing cancer and facilitates detection of cancer long before the disease becomes evident otherwise was explained here today by Dr. Leonidas Charles A. Haffner, internationally known biochemist.

The test is hailed in Western medical circles as a possible means of saving many cancer sufferers by warning them that they have the disease before they are aware of the fact, thus enabling them to be treated in time.

After years of work, the test was discovered jointly by Dr. Haffner and Dr. Winfred H. Buernmann, Portland, Ore., who have just formally announced their results in brief and highly technical form in the Western Journal of Surgery, Obstetrics and Gynecology, official publication of the Pacific Coast Surgical Association.

Dr. Haffner is associated with Dr. Walter B. Coffey and Dr. John D. Hunter, San Francisco cancer specialists and discoverers of the Coffey-Hunter cortic extract, which has been efficacious in arresting malignancy. Dr. Haffner's laboratory is in the Edward S. Harkness Research Laboratories at Southern Pacific General Hospital.

"Working on the theory that the cancer cell gives off a waste substance that is eliminated through the body's normal excretions," Dr. Haffner said, "We first worked until we discovered and isolated this waste substance called phymatohyacin, and then kept on working until we discovered the test to detect its presence."

"The test involves a somewhat complicated but entirely practical technique."

"If, after undergoing this technique, the excretion specimen shows a gummy precipitate, light yellow to buff or light brown in color, that would indicate a positive result, or the presence of cancer."

"If no precipitate remains, it means there is no cancer."

Dr. Coffey, chief surgeon of the Southern Pacific Railway Co., in discussing the test, said it had been subjected to trial on a series of cancer cases and controls and was found to be accurate in 92 per cent of more than 1500 cases diagnosed.

SAYS GANGSTERS EXTORTED $50 FROM FORMER ACTOR

Man Held in Los Angeles Kidnaping Tells of Getting Money From Kenneth Harlan.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 3.—An allegation that three members of the Ralph Sheldon gang, under indictment for the alleged kidnaping of E. L. Carass, race track figure, had extorted $50 from Kenneth Harlan, former movie actor, while he was the owner of a Hollywood night club, was disclosed yesterday by the Sheriff's office.

Capt. Norris Stensland said the statement was made last March by Jimmie Doolin, one of the gangsters and once an informer for the District Attorney's office, under the name of "Harry Evans."

It also contained a detailed account of the kidnaping of Carass and his wife a year ago, during which the abductors engaged in a revolver fight with Long Beach police.

Doolin said that he, James (Socks) McDonough, wanted in Chicago for murder, and Chuck Meschan, went to Harlan's club.

"Chuck asked Jim whether Harlan would go for a shakedown and McDonough said he would find out," Doolin said. McDonough walked up to Harlan and demanded $50 or the "joint will be blown up."

"Harlan tried to pull a revolver," the statement continued, "and McDonough knocked him down. Then Harlan pulled out a roll and gave him $50."

HENRY HARRINGTON, FORMER POLICE SERGEANT, DIES AT 83

FICKERT SAYS HIS MOONEY LETTER WAS MISCONSTRUED

Not Personally Seeking Clemency for Prisoner, Says the Latter's Prosecutor.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—En route to Santa Barbara, where he will "spend several days soaking up sunshine," Mayor James J. Walker of New York left behind him today a controversy resulting from his plea for a pardon for Tom Mooney, convicted of bombing the San Francisco Preparedness day parade in 1916.

Discussion centered about the letter signed by Mooney's Prosecutor.

The letter was written in Walker's suite at a local hotel. The Mayor read it during his pardon plea before Gov. Ralph and, when it was heralded as an endorsement by Fickert of a pardon for Mooney, Fickert declared it could not be construed to mean that he personally was seeking executive clemency for Mooney.

In Los Angeles Fickert issued a statement terming the wording of the letter "unfortunate," and said that he had not changed his opinion that Mooney was guilty as convicted. He said the letter had been written hastily.

OREGON TO DROP STATE TAX ON REAL PROPERTY

Elimination Next Year Will Be Possible Because of Savings and Other Receipts.

By the Associated Press.
SALEM, Ore., Dec. 3.—Taxes levied for State purposes on real property in Oregon will be eliminated next year. Gov. Julius L. Meier announced the change following a conference with the State Tax Commission.

Elimination of the tax, the Governor said, will be possible because of receipts from intangibles, personal income, corporation and excise taxes, repeal of the one mill market road tax, waiver of the World War veterans' half mill, tax and by substantial savings in the operation of various State institutions. The State levy on real property this year totaled $4,592,627.

The Extra Cough Help Extra In Power And Price

Cremulsion is a super-help for coughs from colds. It is for trying coughs where you should not risk a weak help. Seven major helps are embodied in it, including the best known to medical science.

The creosote is blended, emulsified and palatable. It is to soothe the membranes and combat the germs. It presents the world's best help for coughs of this kind in a pleasant form.

There are white pine tar, wild cherry bark, menthol, ipecac, etc. All the greatest helps in one, but with no narcotic. Despite all its power and efficiency, it is harmless to a child.

Some coughs call for one help, some another. Nobody can tell. So we combine the best in Cremulsion to be safe. Cremulsion costs a little more than lesser helps. But all druggists guarantee it and return the full price to anyone not satisfied.

It may be too good for your cough. A lesser help might serve. But is it wise to take the risk when coughs are danger signals? Anyway, a cough from a cold which hangs on calls for this super-help. Do the best men know, to be sure.

Tac-Ezy has holes punched clear through for easy nailing. Made of 31 gauge bronze. Nails furnished are made of copper, steel reinforced, guaranteed rustproof.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Dec. 3.—Partly buried for more than nine hours at the bottom of a 20-foot well, C. R. Van Dalsem, 50 years old, a well digger, was rescued today, slightly chilled and weakened but otherwise unharmed. Van Dalsem was trapped by a cave-in of loose bricks and sand late yesterday. R-K-O. HEAD DENIES RECEIVER SUIT CHARGES

Hiram Brown Urges Stockholders to Support Recently Proposed Refinancing Plan.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Hiram S. Brown, president of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, in a formal statement, says the necessity for forwarding proxies for the execution of a refinancing plan is emphasized by the bringing of receivership proceedings in Baltimore.

"The officials of Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation have been informed that proceedings were today instituted in Baltimore seeking a receivership of the corporation," said last night's statement. "While we have not yet seen the papers which have been filed, we are informed that the proceedings have been brought by the holders of only 300 shares of stock and that receivership is sought on the grounds that the corporation is unable to meet its present obligations and that the corporation has been mismanaged. We are confident that the charges of mismanagement cannot be sustained."

"The ability of the corporation to meet its financial requirements will depend on the putting into effect of the refinancing plan which has been submitted to stockholders."

A statement was issued by the R-K-O Stockholders' Protective Committee, saying:

"While we do not regard the application for receivership made in Baltimore today by J. Cookman Boyd as likely to be successful, we feel that it makes it imperative for all stockholders to send in proxies at once to be used at the meeting on Dec. 10, as the need for the curtailed financing, which the committee recommends under its modified plan of operations of the financing plan, is obvious to the committee."

"We urge all stockholders to send in their proxies inscribing across the face, 'I vote "yes," if the corporation gives its pledge to the R-K-O Stockholders' Protective Committee, otherwise I vote "no,"' to either this committee, or to the corporation, as we feel that the approval of the plan in its original form and operated in the modified method as suggested by the committee is better for the stockholders than any form of management that could arise from a receivership."

Corporation Has Until Dec. 22 to Reply to Suit.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 3.—J. Cookman Boyd, Baltimore attorney, acting in his own name as a stockholder, filed suit in Circuit Court here yesterday asking that a receiver be appointed for the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation. Judge Owens gave the corporation until Dec. 22 to show cause why the receiver should not be appointed.

Boyd's suit alleged excessive prices had been paid for some theaters purchased and that there had been other "wilful mismanagement."

The action also charged the company's present condition "has been brought about by waste of the corporation's assets by payment of large and excessive salaries to its officers and employees, and the same has been characterized as wilful incompetence and wilful mismanagement on the part of the officers."

Pollard reported that Steinman had wounded his dog with a shotgun and also a dog owned by James Taylor, 6306 Hancock avenue. Steinman, according to police, admitted the shooting and said he had warned the owners of the dogs to keep the animals off his property.

NO ALIMONY FOR CHAUFFEUR WHO WED INDIAN OIL HEIRESS

Los Angeles Court Denies Plea, but Orders Wife to Give Husband $3750 Defense Money.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 3.—Charles J. Chalette, chauffeur, who married his employer, Elizabeth McAllister, Osaage Indian oil heiress, cannot collect alimony from her, but he is entitled to divorce expenses. Superior Judge Dudley Valentine ruled that California law makes no provision for a man to collect alimony.

He ordered Mrs. Chalette, however, to pay her husband $3750 as a defense fund in the divorce action she has filed.

Chalette married Miss McAllister last September. At that time he said he had $165. He said his present assets were $32. He admitted his wife gave him various amounts at different times and promised him $10,000 a year spending money, but that most of the money she gave him in escrow in real estate deals and attached by her.

Mrs. Chalette sued for a divorce after two months of wedded life. She charged her husband with cruelty and declared he married her for her money.

"So Tired I Could Burst Into Tears"

The Plait of Women Who Are "Acid"

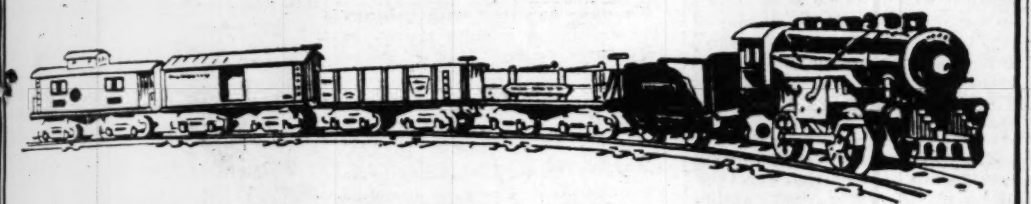

There must be something wrong when the lightest tasks exhaust you. There must be something wrong when your daily duties so tax your nerves that you "go to pieces," and feel as if the only relief is in a good cry. More often than not, people who lack "pep" and ambition and are "always tired" are victims of an acid condition.

The true way to help correct acidity and intestinal putrefaction is by introducing oxygen into the stomach. Oxygen, as medical science knows, is a marvelous antacid and intestinal antiseptic. And now it is possible to introduce oxygen into the stomach by means of an amazing, harmless white tablet, called Magnesia Oxidized. Developed in Germany by the world's foremost pharmaceutical house, Magnesia Oxidized stands as one of the great medical discoveries of all time! Upon contact with the stomach acids, these tablets liberate nascent or active oxygen. The preparation neutralizes excess acid, counteracts the putrefactive processes and sweetens and purifies the whole intestinal tract. All the distress and misery are relieved and a new sense of vigor and well-being is restored.

5-Day Acidity Test

See for yourself how much acid has to do with your run-down condition and that persistent feeling of tiredness. Make this 5-day acidity test: Get a package of Magnesia Oxidized from any drug store. Take two after each meal for 5 days. Note the pick-up in your pep and vigor. Mark the new peace of your stomach and nerves. If 5 days' use of Magnesia Oxidized doesn't make you feel decidedly better return the balance of the bottle and the druggist will promptly and cheerfully refund your money.

GHNOLLY SEEKS FOURTH CONSECUTIVE VICTORY HERE TONIGHT

JOE LIKELY TO GET REAL TEST IN BATTLE WITH JOHNNY FARR

Coliseum Card

MAIN EVENT—Joe Ghnolly, St. Louis, vs. Johnny Farr, Cleveland, 10 rounds, 150 pounds. SEMI-WINDUP—Lou Terry, St. Louis, vs. Allen Whitlow, Phoenix, Ariz., 10 rounds, 135 pounds.

PRELIMINARIES—Jack Horner, St. Louis, vs. Jack Purvis, Indianapolis, 10 rounds, 150 pounds. Dave Barry, Springfield, Ill., vs. Al De Rose, Indianapolis, 10 rounds, 128 pounds. Ray Palmer, St. Louis, vs. Harold Scott, Claremore, Okla., 6 rounds, 128 pounds.

PLACE—Coliseum, Jefferson and Washington avenues. FIRST BOUT—8:15 o'clock.

By W. J. McGoogan.

Joe Ghnolly, St. Louis' leading contender for junior lightweight boxing honors, will be seeking his fourth successive victory in his home city tonight, when he faces Johnny Farr of Cleveland at the Coliseum in the 10-round main event of Kid Bandy's card.

Ghnolly, after a course in Gus Wilson's school at Orangeburg, N. Y., which enabled him to compile a long string of triumphs, returned to his home city during the past summer to show the fans just how much he had improved.

He proved that he had learned his lessons well by defeating Davey Abad in a 16-round bout after he had boxed a 10-round draw with him. Then Joe went on to gain point verdicts over Lou Terry and Johnny Kaiser.

In Farr, Joe will be meeting an experienced battler, one who has met Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion of the world, three times, and who has fought outstanding boxers such as Freddy Miller, Ray Miller and Jimmy McLarnin. This is the Cleveland boy's seventh year in the ring. He may have been seduced by his technical knockout at the hands of Bushy Graham recently and by two subsequent defeats, but he still should be able to give little Joe a hard fight.

The bout will feature a program of five fights scheduled for 45 rounds. While there are few big names on the card, yet the pairings indicate plenty of action.

Jackie Horner Meets Purvis. One bout in particular is interesting the fans. That is the 10-rounder between Jackie Horner and Jack Purvis. Horner is another St. Louis boy who, like Ghnolly, has done most of his boxing away from home. He has fought high class against My Sullivan almost two years ago and My flattened Jack with a punch in the first round. Prior to this contest between Horner and Jackie Fields at Battery A was the fight in which Horner further punishment.

But Horner went East to continue his career and met some of the best lightweight in the game. Some he defeated, others knocked him out, but he showed in which he engaged was a red hot one.

Recently in a training bout at Detroit, Horner hit King Tut and felled him, something which isn't done every day. Jack's aggressive style and punching ability makes him a threat against anyone.

Purvis is remembered here for his game bout against Eddie Ran at the Arena last winter, when he got up from the floor time and again to stay 10 rounds in the hard-punching New York Pole.

Dave Barry, probably the best prospect, aside from Ghnolly, in the local boxing colony, meets Al De Rose of Indianapolis in another 10-rounder. Barry has won the approval of the fans here in several bouts recently, showing a fine punch and plenty of boxing skill.

De Rose is substituting for Roy Nidy who suffered an injury in training and had to withdraw.

In the 10-round semi-windup, Lou Terry and Allen Whitlow mix. Whitlow has fought two good bouts here.

Ray Palmer meets Howard Scott in the six-round curtain-raiser.

ST. LOUIS U. FRESHMAN FOOTBALL STAR BEAT HIS LEG IN PRACTICE

MCQUAY-NORRIS FIVE WINS OVERTIME GAME IN INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE

Five games were played last night in the opening of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball League at the Armory. The high light of the evening developed when McQuay-Norris trimmed the Ralston, 19 to 18, in an overtime game. In the other Division No. 1 game, the International defeated Missouri Pacific, 30 to 9.

In Division No. 2, the Quick Meals defeated the Procter & Gamble five, 31 to 27. Fouke Fur led to win from Rawlings, 30 to 20, and the Penny team buried the John Deere five, 37 to 14.

Powell, Gunners' New End, Also Catches a Good Game And Fights a Good Fight

Opposing players will be careful of taking undue liberties with Dick Powell, newly acquired end of the St. Louis "Gunners" professional football team, who expects to play his first game for his new team against the Des Moines club next Sunday. For Powell, in addition to being a great football player of long experience, is a professional heavyweight boxer who has won 31 out of 36 fights, 21 of his victories being scored by knockouts.

During his college days Powell played end on the Davis-Elkins eleven when that team won national recognition. His chief fame was earned at the Army when he scored the only points his team counted in two games against West Point.

Powell turned professional boxer about the same time as "Father" Lumpkin, the Georgia Tech. ace, and they were immediately matched. Powell knocked out Lumpkin in the third round and went on to pile up a string of victories.

In Welch Stable. He has recently been connected with the stable of K. O. Christner and Gorilla Jones, which is managed by Suey Welch. But in a bout against Gene Stanton at Cleveland, which Powell won, Dick hurt his hand and had to quit the ring for a while to permit the injury to heal.

Figuring out his many athletic talents as ways to earn money, he remembered that he was a football player and accepted the chance to come to St. Louis with the Cleveland Panthers to play the Gunners last Sunday.

It is impossible to tell what there was about the city on that cold, rainy, dismal day which attracted the big fellow, but between halves he walked over to the Gunners' lock and asked Bud Yates, manager of the team, for a job. "I've just been playing around

Brouillard Stops "Bucky" Lawless In Three Rounds

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—Lou Brouillard, of Worcester, lightweight champion of the world, knocked out Bucky Lawless of Syracuse, N. Y., in the third round of a scheduled 10-round non-title bout here last night. Lawless was down once in the first round, and once in the second before the finishing blow.

The southpaw champion disposed of the disputant to his title claims without trouble. The finishing blow came after one minute and 20 seconds of fighting in the third round.

Lawless, who has been the nemesis of at least three world's champions in non-title affairs showed no respect for the Worcester brawler in the opening minutes of the fight, but a stiff right to the ribs sent him to the floor for the count of nine. He staggered through the remainder of the round.

He came out ready for battle in the second and traded punches with Brouillard during the first two minutes, but a sharp left to the face followed by another under the chin sent Lawless down again for a nine-count. The bell prevented him from being knocked out at this time.

Lawless made a valiant effort to ward off his fate as the third opened but after a flurry of blows he walked straight into a left which staggered him. The champion followed it up with two more lefts which knocked Lawless senseless.

Joe Fogasari has a 30-point lead over the Class C seniors. Truman Connell holds a 20-point lead in the intermediate boys' class as a result of his victory over James Mackey.

Tigers Planning Air Attack Against the Billikens, Saturday

By James M. Gould.

Unless all signs fail, the Missouri Tigers, in their battle with St. Louis U., Saturday, intend to fill the air with passes. In previous games, this air attack has been the most successful feature of the Tiger offense and it is against this type of play that the Billikens are being tutored in defense. Missouri has an excellent passer in the 155-pound George Stuber and three extra-good receivers in Hatfield, Collins and Schiele.

Stuber will be carefully watched. He is only a sophomore but, in every game the Tigers have played has done mighty fine work. According to the report of St. Louis scouts, "Stuber passes, runs and kicks and does all of them well."

Another player who will come in for special attention from the Billikens is Mack Gladden. Gladden, who comes from Turley, Mo., is 191 pounds of football man. He is in every play and a whale of a man on defense. As a matter of fact, the flanks would seem to be as well guarded as any of the Missouri positions for, on the other end to Gladden, is Charley Schiele of East St. Louis, a fine flanker whose worth has been recognized in his choice as a member of the all-star Big Six team for 1931.

Coach Walsh figures that Missouri will use the same defense against the Billikens that they employed against Temple last Saturday, inasmuch as the Temple attack is very similar to that of the St. Louis eleven. Missouri has several styles of defense and tried three of them in the Temple game according to Joe Maxwell.

Shock Troops to Test Tiger Defense. It is for this reason, among others, that Walsh will stick to his plan of starting his shock troops. They are to be in there to test out both the defense and attack of the Missourians for the benefit of the so-called regulars who will hear the first whistle from the bench.

There will be a change in this shock-troop lineup for, with Joe Stephan probably definitely out of action, Bob McCool will replace Joe on the first-string combination while Bob's position at left half with the "hookers" probably will be taken by Lee Savage with Johnny Hoy as an alternate choice.

If Savage starts, he will add a pound to the St. Louis team's weight average and the Tigers, at this point, will have only five pounds per man advantage.

Stephan pulled a tendon in his leg early in the Washington game and the injury has failed to improve as was hoped. If the situation permits he may be in just for a play or two so he can say he played against the Tigers.

News from Columbia is that the Tiger players are taking the game very seriously and that the engagement of the conference tournament, which is being held at Columbia, "some of the Missouri officials would like to call it, will be a real battle. Actually, it figures as one of the best games of the season with the result very much in doubt.

Six Billikens to Play Final Game. The six seniors on the St. Louis

COUNTRY'S COLUMN

Rabbit vs. Greyhound.

"GIVE a jack rabbit a start in open country, then release a single greyhound. Is it a certainty that the greyhound will overtake the rabbit?"

That's another problem that turned up in the morning mail. Never having been present on an occasion described in the hypothetical question, this writer can't answer authoritatively. But the following contribution by Stuart Stickney, owner of a stable of crack greyhounds and promoter of a recent coursing meet at Country Club grounds, may shed some light on the subject.

"The jack rabbit is pretty well able to take care of himself. I believe that under favorable conditions a single greyhound would not be able to overtake and kill the rabbit."

"Take an incident that happened at our meet. One jack rabbit literally played with the first two dogs we sent after him. One of the pair fell over exhausted and we sent in a relief dog. Then the second dog of the first pair began to lose ground and we sent in a second relief animal. Even these were losing ground and we had to send in a fifth dog before victory went to the greyhound."

Dogmen say that with properly conditioned rabbits there is very little chance of the greyhound making the kill.

Kaute Said It. STILL harking back to that Notre Dame-Trojans game, a correspondent wants to know if in our opinion, the Notre Dame team would not have won its last two games had Rockne been in charge of the team.

The question is one below the belt. The answer is that the correspondent's guess is as good as the next person's. However, within the last few days, a remark made by Rockne at the close of the 1930 season has been revived. It seems to answer the question.

Rockne had been asked about his 1931 team. His reply then, which was requested recently, was substantially this: "We will have a fine squad next year, but it is not likely to go through the season unbeaten. The loss of the great quarterback, Curdick, of that all-America back, Brill and of several linemen will hurt us. We probably will be beaten twice next year."

It reads almost like prophecy. It seems to indicate Anderson.

What Price Touchdown? AT WISCONSIN University it costs taxpayers $5400 each to score touchdowns, a State Senator told members of his Legislature.

If so, it is the only major university where the touchdown is a liability instead of an asset. Unless football has shrunk worse than a new flannel shirt after a wash in hot water, football has paid the expenses not only of itself, but of all other nonpaying sports, plus intramural activities.

Smaller schools with unsuccessful teams, sometimes have to scramble for athletic funds, but many of our big institutions, on a par with Wisconsin, finance all sports.

Under the high school plan the maximum insurance is $200

which is allowed for the loss of an eye. Two broken arms brings $150 and so on down to $7.50 for a broken finger.

Universities say that this form of insurance is not necessary because the athletic associations take care of all injuries out of their own funds to a far greater extent than that available for high school relief.

The number of deaths this year brought up this phase of discussion. Considering that these have included victims from 8 years of age upwards, it would appear that most of the accidents were among the immature or immature.

And when it figured that there are at least 25,000 college football players (not counting intramural or fraternity teams) and an almost incalculable number of high, preparatory and grammar-school players—up in the hundreds of thousands. The probability of effectively insuring the public against football accidents is entirely too large to be practical.

In this connection it may be noted that the agitation over the season's football death roll of 11 is unwarranted. With the total number of persons between the ages of 12 and 23 who are engaged seasonally in some sort of football totaling more than 300,000, the death rate is only one

More All-American Stuff.

ERNE PINCKERT's name has not been seen in the headlines very often, but he continues to be a sterling backfield man for Southern California. Last year he was an all-American man, and this season there seems little doubt that he will make the grade.

Pinckert, who plays right half-back, is more esteemed for other qualities than ground gaining, although he can perform with the best in this particular when called upon.

He is an unusual player and an unusual personality. His job is to clear the path for the ball carrier. He's a fast blocker, the best interfeer and the best defense man on the team against forward passes. At least Coach Howard Jones holds this opinion. In the Notre Dame game Pincert hardly got a mention for carrying the ball. He ran back a kick once or twice. But the way he blocked was a revelation. If he was good enough to be all-American last year, this year's added experience ought to make him a sure shot for a place.

Pincert is married. He lives in a bungalow near the campus. He is an art student, and the only one of his class who is a football player.

Incidentally there is another "silent" all-American candidate on the Southern California team. He is Arbelidee, end. Like Plinckert, he makes it easy for the other fellows and tough for his own. Gangster Arbelidee's are as scarce as two-dollar bills for wheat. He, too, was an all-American mension last year. But "Catfish" Smith of Georgia and Dalrymple of Tulane seem to have caught the public fancy.

LOS ANGELES IS JACOBS' CHOICE FOR SCHMELING'S NEXT TITLE BOUT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The much-discussed heavyweight championship bout between Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker, which has been bounced into four different states by the various promoters, kept right on bouncing merrily to day with Los Angeles as its most probable destination.

While various persons who ought to know what they are talking about were mentioning three other sites, Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling and the man who will have the final say-so, insisted that Los Angeles "was in the lead."

Madison Square Garden's arena at Miami, Fla., appeared to be left out as a possible site when Louis K. Macreynolds, chairman of the Florida Boxing Commission, telegraphed James J. Johnston, general manager of the Garden Corporation, that no match involving a world's championship could be staged in Florida under a State law. Johnston said he believed he could get Schmeling restored to good standing here and stage the bout in the New York Garden this winter.

May Straighten Out Tangle. Meanwhile William F. Carey, president of the Garden Corporation, still appeared confident that the Florida angle could be "straightened out." A fourth group expressed doubt that the bout would be held at all.

Everybody in New York except Jacobs appeared to have forgotten Los Angeles as a possible site. He summarized the situation early today as follows:

Sixteen Basket Games Scheduled For C. B. C. Team

With visions of a "big" season, Coach Jack O'Reilly has had his C. B. C. basketball candidates working out now for more than a week, and is now of the belief that he can form a very capable team out of the material in hand. The schedule calls for 16 games plus at least one tournament.

This year, although one of last year's guards has graduated, the other is eligible for only the first half of the season, there is such a quantity of material for the guard posts that Coach O'Reilly is contemplating developing a forward or two from the group. The forward line needs replacements. Five lettermen are returning from last year's squad, Jack Sullivan, forward; Phil Kilgus, center; John Bardenheier and Russ Braundick, guards; and John Busch, who is good at almost any position on the floor, having played at least one full game at each one of the five posts. He will likely play a forward this year. In addition to these players, Flynn, Randall and Gene O'Sullivan, and Randall Whyte are expected to put a strong fight to become members of the team. They played on the Muncy League team last season and are now ready for "faster company."

McGann, Huser, Kerwin and Wrobel of last year's "B" team have reported and since all are forwards they will be given a very thorough test before being relegated to some other team. It is quite probable that McGann will make the team as he is fast and shifty with a knack of breaking through to ring up points.

The two feature games of the season, excluding the league contests, are the ones to be played on Athletic Night and Basketball Friday. Last year the alumni and the St. Louis U. freshmen provided the opposition, the contest in both cases being very one-sided. This year Maplewood High School will be the visiting team on Athletic Night which has been set for Jan. 9. For basketball Sunday, which has been tentatively set for the first Sunday in March, a new opponent will be seen in the form of De La Salle Academy of Kansas City.

The C. B. C. team of Memphis also will play here this season, repaying the debt of the St. Louis school during the football season.

KWARIANI TO MEET

A return match between Kola Kwariani of Russia, and Pat O'Shocker, St. Louis heavyweight, will provide the semi-impulse to the one-fall finish bout between Gino Garibaldi and George Zaharias, also a return engagement, corded as the main event of next Wednesday night's wrestling show at the Arena. The preliminary feature, announced today by Promoter Tom Packs, will be limited to 45 minutes.

Kwariani won the decision over O'Shocker in their last setto, decided on an Eastern mat some two months ago. The coming Arena engagement will mark the Russian's first appearance here since his defeat by McMillen early last summer. Kola was apparently knocked out on that occasion after 15 minutes of rough and tumble grappling.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Rugby will be played at Stagg Field here Saturday for the emergency relief fund of Cook County and among the players will be four old rugby players from South Africa.
Dr. Paul S. Theron, dentist of St. Joseph, Mich., who will play center, was a member of the Capetown University team in 1915. Dr. Dewet Vorster, a Chicago dentist, will play forward. He was a player for South African University. H. H. Watt of Evanston, wing, played rugby for South African College. These three are all on the Illinois team, while opposing them in Chicago's lineup will be another South African, Stephen Pretorius, professor at the University of Chicago.

JACKSON GAINS 40-PIN LEAD ON RAY ZIEGLER

Lowell Jackson of Kron Undertakers, defeated Ray Ziegler of the Brennans by 40 pins in the first five games of their 20-game match, 10-40 to 10-00, yesterday.

The games were bowled on the Wellston Recreation alleys. The next five will be bowled on the Grand and St. Louis alleys Wednesday, the third block at the Wellston Recreation alleys and the final block at the Grand and St. Louis alleys.

In yesterday's match Jackson took the lead in the first game, rolling 211 to Ziegler's 180. Ziegler started off poorly getting two misses in the first three frames. He had one miss after that, but drew six splits. Five of these were the 5-7 split, but he picked three of them the other split was the 8-10. Jackson had two misses, two "cherry picks" and two splits.

REPORT IN STOCK LIST FOLLOWS A NEW SETBACK

Market Approaches the Low of Early October
Before the Turn—Several Leaders Gain 2 to 4 Points.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The stock market again rebounded smartly after approaching the bear market lows of early October to date. Several leading issues closed with net gains of two to four points. Sales approximated 1,800,000 shares. The closing tone was strong.

The market's refusal to penetrate the Oct. 5 bottom, and vague rumors of impending constructive developments in Washington, prompted active short covering, after a backwash of selling had been absorbed during the morning. Leading commodities were generally steady to firm, and the British pound sterling appeared to have achieved fresh stability.

Some shares sagged fractionally from the best in the final dealings, but only after extreme gains of 3 to 4 points had been chalked up for such issues as American Telephone, American Can, Southern Pacific, New York Central, Santa Fe and Union Pacific. Issues up about 2 points included U. S. Steel, Case, McKeesport, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Lambert and Air Reduction.

The weekly bank statements showed a rather sharp drop in the Bank of England's reserve ratio, which fell 5 points to a new low at 28.4 per cent, but this was due primarily to a gain of 14,000,000 in circulation, necessitated by the Dec. 1 settlements. There have been some rumors of official support for sterling exchange in the last day or two, but confirmation has been lacking.

The New York money market was virtually unchanged, with a slightly easier tone in call money. Outside money was available at 2 per cent, against 2 1/4% yesterday. In foreign exchanges, the pound sterling was rather erratic for a time, but rallied about 1 1/2 cents higher at 133.77 for cables. Leading European currencies were generally steady to firm. The German mark was a little higher, despite fresh weakness of German Government bonds.

N. Y. C. ASKS AUTHORIZATION FOR $100,000,000 ISSUE

Refunding and Improvement Bonds to Bear 5 Per Cent—Not to Be Sold at Present.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The New York Central Railroad today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to issue $100,000,000 of refunding and improvement bonds. The bonds are to be dated October 21, 1931, and will mature October 21, 1933. They bear 5 per cent interest and are callable on October 1, 1931, at 105 per cent of par.

The road does not propose to sell the bonds at the present time but will use them to secure short term notes as needed.

Money to be derived is to be used to reimburse the treasury of the company for advances and betterments made between 1922 and 1930.

BROKERS' LOANS SHOW DECREASE OF $31,000,000

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Loans to brokers and dealers held by the New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending Dec. 2 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board as $120,000,000, a decrease of $31,000,000 as compared to the preceding week.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 5 TO 8 POINTS HIGHER

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Trading in cotton was comparatively quiet again today, with the fluctuations correspondingly narrow. Advances from early declines were not fully maintained, but the undertone was generally steady, with foundation and some local selling absorbed by covering and trade buying. After steady trading, the market closed higher with January rising around 6 1/2 to 7 1/2.

Futures closed steady, five to eight higher than the January 6.150 to 6.184. March 6.300 to 6.315. May 6.480 to 6.495. July 6.600 to 6.615. September 6.700 to 6.715. December 6.800 to 6.815.

Cotton opened steady at an advance of 1 1/2 to 2 points on overnight trade orders and trade buying. January advanced up to 6 1/2 to 7 1/2. The market set in later and the market eased slightly.

Liverpool cable reported continental selling at that market. Some cotton was sold there by irregularity in sterling and other factors. Futures in Alexandria were 15 to 40 points lower. A private cable from Bombay placing the indicated yield at 17,263,000 bales, an advance prior to December 1 at 15,100,000.

Another private report was issued during the morning placing the indicated crop of 16,850,000 bales, and estimates for 1932 at 14,100,000 bales.

LEAD, ZINC AND COPPER

Lead was steady at $3.65 per 100 pounds in St. Louis today. Zinc was steady at $3.15 per 100 pounds. Copper was steady at $19.00 per 100 pounds. Tin was steady at $45.00 per 100 pounds. Silver was steady at $1.25 per 100 pounds. Gold was steady at $35.00 per 100 pounds.

WARRANT UNDER HENRY LAW FOR ALLEGED BAKERY ROBBER
Elwyn J. Piel, Accused of Holdup at 4159 Union Boulevard; Identified, Police Say.
A warrant under the Henry law charging robbery was issued yesterday against Elwyn J. Piel, a roofer living in the 4500 block on Davison avenue, in connection with a holdup at the Pralle Bakery Co., 4159 Union boulevard, Tuesday afternoon in which an armed man obtained $93.
Piel was arrested after police traced the license of an automobile used in the robbery to a cigar store proprietor who said he had lent the machine to Piel. Piel was out on $5000 bond in a robbery case in St. Louis County when he was arrested. Police say witnesses identified him as the man who robbed the bakery company.

HOLLYWOOD CODE: GET ALL YOU CAN WHILE GETTING IS GOOD
Attorney Tells Court About Movie Performers Who Indorse Merchandise.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 3.—Hollywood's code is to "get all you can while the getting is good." It was disclosed yesterday in the suit of Gunther R. Lessing, local attorney, who is suing Dolores Del Rio for $11,000 legal fees, because, he says, he so advised her that she changed from a leading woman into a star of the movies.
Lessing made the statement after the judge asked him if the film folk had any standard which might stand in the way of their indorsements of merchandise. Lessing had been describing his efforts in recovering rights for his client to prevent the use of her name or picture in advertising articles of merchandise.
The plaintiff also alleged he succeeded in having Miss Del Rio's name appear in larger type than that of her director, Edwin Carrawe.

CHAPTER NINE

CARTER stayed at Della's a few days longer. Then, a hitch in the decorating, which he always supervised himself for his clients, necessitated, or so he said, his immediate and indefinite absence on the job. So he moved to the Westlawn Inn and there stayed contentedly. His wife, he had explained, had gone South. The boys were in a boarding school. And so he might as well make himself comfortable on the scene of action as to motor down every day and return to what he characterized as his roof-top at night.

It was a famous roof-top; one of the first penthouses on upper Fifth avenue, planned and decorated and built by himself and very beautifully carried out, with an entirely successful roof and tea garden to top it off literally. Nevis was to grow to know it one day as well as she did her own house.

Carter was an addition to any party. Therefore he moved in and out of the Hunts, the Carlysles, the Blanchards and others, all of whom he had known for some time, completely assured of his welcome. Bill liked him, with reservations. "A smooth article," said Bill.

He was often at the Lancasters. More often when Bill was not at home. Nevis fell into the habit of looking for him those crisp, cold autumn afternoons, of going with him, ostensibly to observe the Waterford House and its progress, and of gravely discussing the swimming pool which the Waterfords had planned—a last-minute enthusiasm on Fluff's part. And then, perhaps they would walk through the woods on the Waterford property and end up somewhere for tea, generally at Nevis's.

She told herself that it didn't mean anything. She was lonely. She found time very heavy on her hands. Carter lightened it. He was very entertaining, the most sophisticated person she had ever met. A good deal older than herself, he was experienced, traveled, widely read, with the broad streak of the artist running through him, which is common to the successful men of his profession. He'd wanted, he said, to paint. He had a flair for drawing, for line. But none for color. That is, he could see color, could feel it, but it wouldn't flow from his brush. So he had turned to architecture, the "frozen music" of the arts, often the stepchild of the arts, and had put into libraries and hotels and great office buildings and lovely houses all the desire for beauty, and the expression of beauty, which had gnawed at him all his life long.

SOMETHING of a cynic, and therefore sentimental under his cynicism; something of a romantic; something of a dreamer, who directed his dreams and watched them flower, not into poetry or prose or landscapes fixed on canvas but into steel and brick and stone; something of an adventurer, this was Harry Carter. He was the exact antithesis of Bill Lancaster. "And yet," said Nevis to herself in some astonishment, "he attracts me a lot. I wonder why?" I thought women ran to type.

She admitted the attraction, looked it full in the face, found it no distress signal to warn her, no least, slightest disloyalty to Bill. She liked Carter; he amused and flattered her. She loved Bill. There was all the difference in the world. She'd never been her fingers at Carter's tutored face because, she reminded herself quaintly, you couldn't love two men at the same time, could you?

So at first it was nothing but an innocent excursion into, to her, a new country of mind and personality. Carter went back to town, the Waterfords moved into their new house and gave a great Christmas house-warming. And Carter began a series of dinners, large and small, in return for all the hospitality he had enjoyed at Westlawn. Bill said, yawning, spending the short remainder of several nights in a New York hotel: "Good Lord, I thought we moved to the country so we could avoid this sort of thing and here we are chasing up to town and back again, like a couple of wet hens."

Nevis was at the big dinner—with Bill, of course, and all the small ones. The sheer studied beauty of the home in which Carter lived took her by the throat. She said to him, her first evening there, "But it's too utterly lovely." They were standing alone on the roof looking out over the Park and reservoir and the lines of lights among the trees, looking down to the great bulk of the Plaza, the Sherry-Netherlands, the Savoy-Plaza with their rows of yellow lights; looking down, far down, at the Avenue, the street lamps like exotic golden fruit, and at the lines of moving cars.

Carter said: "I like it. And it becomes you, Nevis. I told you that I knew your right and perfect setting. . . . not quite right, not quite perfect. I doubt if the hand and brain of man could achieve that."

HE said, laughing, knowing him she thought fairly well by now: "That's a bit thick, Harry. Laid on with a trowel." "No. This place is, perhaps, a little too assured for you. A little too conventional. A little too sophisticated. You are like a gypsy, not quite tamed, with your pointed, dark face and your great dark eyes and your cap."

Nevis thought, "Poor Harry," the black curls and your very red mouth, at which I never look for

Writes a Cook Book

Mrs. Edgar R. Rombauer Takes Time Out From Her Many Activities to Publish a Witty and Intelligent Volume on the Joys of Successful Cookery.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN

A cook book which tells you the why and wherefore of all processes, not one which issues orders ex cathedra, without offering reasons, theory or science, is one after my own heart. Such is one issued under the title, "The Joy of Cooking," by Irma S. (Mrs. Edgar R.) Rombauer, 5712 Cabanne avenue.

Being a professed fool proof, it does not insult my intelligence. I like to be told, not only ingredients and methods of procedure, but reasons for my failures when, after following a recipe, my soufflé falls, my meringue turns out a piece of sole leather, my custard curdles, my gravies separate.

Moreover, I enjoy cooking—when concoctions turn out edible and praiseworthy, that is—and like to feel my instructor of the printed page is in accord with my mood. In "The Joy of Cooking," Mrs. Rombauer successfully imparts the feeling that cooking never is nor should be a dull task. Though a thoroughly practical cook book, well indexed and including old and honored recipes as well as the newest fads and fancies, there is not a dull page in it. A running accompaniment of amusing comment, always apropos, anecdotes, personal experiences, witticisms, characteristic of the author as her friends know her, keep you entertained as well as instructed.

Mrs. Rombauer's talents as a homemaker and this, vice president of the School Children's Penny Lunch Association and other activities. But let her tell how she happened to write a cook book. "I'm thirty-eight years old and have enjoyed cooking as an avocation, and as I moved about from place to place I found myself encumbered with an increasing supply of cook books—domestic, foreign, published and unpublished. The result of this encumbrance was an anthology of favorite recipes, which I disposed of all time of my ambulatory library. These recipes have been developed altered and created outright, so that this collection, as it now stands may make a claim to originality."

In the practical outgrowth of a pleasant experience, I have attempted to make palatable dishes with simple means and German extraction. The book is illustrated with amusing cut-out silhouettes of her daughter Marion, who is a director of art at John Burroughs School.

Beginning with cocktails, one learns that they are concocted with "gin and ingenuity." An attitude toward prohibition is subtly revealed in the afterthought: "For the benefit of the temperance movement, I have included a list of cocktails made with fruit juices in addition to cocktails made with liquor."

At the beginning of a chapter on soups, having classified and analyzed the various bases of soups, white stock, brown stock, bouillon, consommé, vegetable, cream and serial soups, the author adds her praise to that of the French Government which covered a decoration on the originator of canned soups.

In the foreword on vegetables one learns that it is to prevent the escape of vitamins and vegetable salts, that you keep them closely covered in as little water as possible. You cook them as short a time as possible for the same reason. That certain vegetables named should not be soaked while others which provide attractive hiding places for dust and insects should be soaked. That strong odors may be lessened if a crust of bread is laid on top of vegetables and that the use of a meringue will destroy the vitamins.

In a sub-chapter on potatoes out by easy stages who the latest was finding out, she whistled. "Fraid," said Mrs. Carter, "Harry'll come a cropper this time." She met Nevis at a bridge in town and said, "Nice little thing."

Mrs. Carter, "And pretty as the devil." But she told herself: "Harry's slipping. It won't be long now. He's got to settle down some time. This is the first time I've known him to pick a fiddle." Married, of course, but recently so, and in love with her husband, however. Or so rumor said.

Key Carter was not a martyred wife at all. In her own fashion she enjoyed life immensely. Conscious since childhood of her own lack of purely feminine allure she had accustomed herself to it, not without, perhaps, heartache and tears in old days. But no longer. And she had, she told herself repeatedly, the best of Harry. The best. She had his sons, his sincerely devoted concern and his unshakable friendship. The best, she thought, was the merry-go-round of Manhattan and other places, the best, possibly, of any man. And possibly she was right.

Yes, but will it stay risen until all the diners have reached the table, Mrs. Rombauer? "In making custards it is well to remember that eggs solidify readily over heat. Therefore they should be cooked over a low flame, never allowed to reach the boiling point, or in a double boiler in have."

Individuality Dominates Fashions

WHETHER fashions reflect the mauve decade with taffeta and lace, or the directorate period with plumes and puffs, whether they reflect the classic beauty of Greece or the bouffant elegance of the colonial period, they are imbued with a modern spirit that makes them acceptable and new today. Individuality is the sounding note for the fashion symphony.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner

Turkey at Home

JOHN and Peggy told the Clock all about their Thanksgiving dinner.

They knew that it was not unfair to tell him about it as he liked to hear about food, and he always knew they liked to eat, but he didn't care to eat himself. After they had finished telling the Little Black Clock what they had had to eat, mentioning some of the things several times over so he'd be sure to hear about everything he told them he had a plan.

He turned the time back to a Thanksgiving quite a number of years before, and they were in the same house, but the grown-ups were children then.

No one seemed to think it was strange they were here. Perhaps it was because there were so many children at the table that two more made so little difference.

All the cousins and relatives had come, and the most interesting thing about it all was that they had just the same kind of food and the table looked just the same as it had years before.

And they still followed the same custom which they always did in John's and Peggy's house on Thanksgiving day and on Christmas.

The children were always given their food first of all—beginning with the youngest person at the table.

That made these days more of special holidays than ever, and too, they did just as they did now—they gave crumbs to the birds.

"Little Black Clock," said John, as they left, "you're the only one in all the world who could give out dinner two Thanksgivings in years and years apart—but all in the same day."

shot with silver or gold metal threads. Demure white lace gowns had velvet sashes of cerise or golden brown. Paisley shawls were converted into wraps and spangled nets reminiscent of the gay nineties were seen.

If you My O

DEAR MRS. CARR: We four girls who need your immensely. One of us, who is dancing and sports, is the Little Black Clock what they had had to eat, mentioning some of the things several times over so he'd be sure to hear about everything he told them he had a plan.

My trouble is that I want to study for a year, but I don't like to leave my husband, ever. I am an artist and I possible that I will find a thing besides neckties, petting getting drunk, BLONDE RAY.

You have pooled your tro so to speak, and hope to say business of being happy. afraid possibly you have discussed too much. Troubles, too, talked about. If the pangs of the second girl are willing, she has friends in New York might do her good in a number of ways to go on there and while. I suppose a woman wants to do; otherwise it prove very unsatisfactory.

The first girl should, of course, have some diversion. Has she any chance to have a real heart talk with her parents-in-law openly and directly that was not satisfied?

The third girl should know a daughter and wife occupy a different place, and she should try to friends with the new mother, not that, talk to her father, vately and tell him she expects to take part in the adjustment. To the fourth girl I would there are just such men as seeks. In fact, from what so the girls tell me, the vague much "mushing," a somewhat faint, probably start the "pictures," is now some pass, overdone, shelved and outside."

DEAR MRS. CARR: I am divorced, living with my mother. I seem to think, though, I am 29 years old, she must to what to do and where to go. One night she politely told friends, a young couple, the young man, they weren't of friends she wanted for me. Mother and I have nothing common. I try to be a daughter. I keep all the bills see that she doesn't want for things within my means. I make a big salary.

Now, a friend, also tells me to leave mother, wouldn't feel right doing that cause I know mother has been good mother, but just because divorced she puts evil in everything I do. My disposition is ferocious. What we want to tell us is, When is a mother supervision over? When is a mother's When she marries? she is 17.

CLARA, LOU AND E

Evidently you have had to with somebody else, because mother. And aren't some things you suggest doing, slightly for you at 29? Of course there are situations, just like you are most trying, but there are absolutely no set rules when a mother's supervision stops, only kindness and patience and reasoning with love, can the friction. You might as ask, though, "When does a mother's interest stop?" If her mother is overbearing, then you will to turn the deaf ear to some scolding at the same time as firmly, that she must concede the right to govern your own if she wishes to live in harmony. That is about all you can expect be kind and considerate of.

real wishes. You know, as well as I, that to "leave her flat" would be unthinkable. Why not ask your sister to invite your mother to California for a while?

DEAR MRS. CARR: I don't think my question will be hard to figure out. A boy I have been going with talked to some of my schoolmates at a country dance and they wanted to get it all wrong. They wanted to go to an old show instead of a dance. Now I have gone to dances many times just to please him, but I don't like country dances. And he said I told him not to go with other girls. I don't know how to tell him how he created me and he showed my letter. But my cousin says he does not talk about me and he asks about me. Do you think he cares for me and will come back? Would it be wrong to send him a Christmas card?

I went with another boy six weeks and then he said he was going to take the measles and would be back later. After that I had four dates with him and he stopped. It looked as if he used to love me a little.

I am 16 years old. Please do not print all of my letter. J.O.

I am glad you asked me not to print the whole letter. Believe me-fourth will do. While I am not a fortune teller, I can't tell you about the inner feelings of these boys. I seem to be more intrigued by the one who went home to have the measles, than the others. I cannot help admiring originality. Your last question I can answer, about the newest acquisition who is 20 years old—that is not too old for you, especially as you say your mother does not object. And don't listen to girls' gossip. Christmas cards can do no harm.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I am 23 years old and in love with a girl. But I have been out of work two months. There are, too, six in my family who need my help. Of course, I cannot support them and a wife, too. Her folks wish the wedding to take place very soon. What can I do?

Sleeve Featured In Style Display

PARIS.

THE sleeve is one of the most expressive features of the 1970s. The two-piece sleeve display is the most popular. There is the pompous sleeve, the subtle sleeve and one that might be described as arrogant; and the self-effacing sleeve, which consists of no sleeve at all.

Taffeta frocks for the young girl frequently have short ones that are puffed or ruffled. Many of the sleeve details are used, both in dresses and coats. Sleeves of formal dresses often are contrasting. A new feature of one house is linings with square necks and shoulders.

Brilliant Finish
In New Coiffure
Hairdressers are introducing new evening coiffures done with a brilliant, shiny finish. Long hair reflects the Greco-Roman influence. The bob is usually awired and instead of shingled or cut short long pieces are left at the back which are braided or rolled into neat pigtails at the base of the head. Interesting trends are being set with hair nets. In one instance the hair is parted on one side from the forehead to one ear and then at right angles in a straight line to the neck. The rest of the hair is back, instead of being dressed in a vertical fashion, is brought in a sidewise movement

The Child's Constitution
EXPERIENCE has taught us that young children can withstand certain diseases less effectively than can adults.

This difference in resistance power can be explained to a large extent by the child's physical constitution which differs in many vital respects from that of the adult.

The child is not a miniature adult. Unlike the little dog Rover which when it died, "died all over," the child in its growth, doesn't "grow all over" at the same rate.

Thus at the time of birth the brain is one-fourth of its final size, while the total weight of its body is approximately but one-twentieth of its adult weight.

Its white cells, picturesquely called the policemen of the body, are also fewer in number, and somewhat weaker in their attack

At birth the child's heart is approximately one-twelfth the adult size. It has a smaller pumping capacity and hence beats faster.

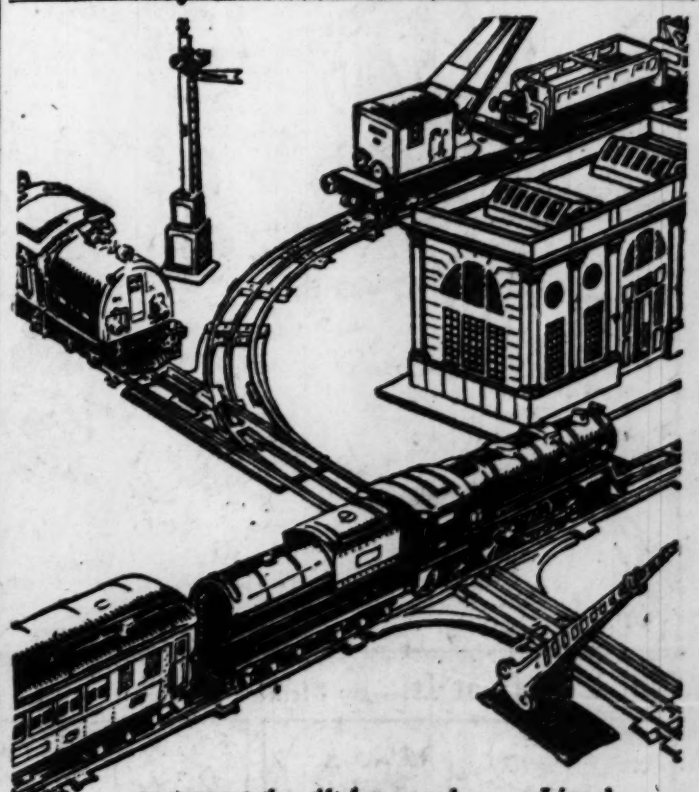

The liver at birth is one-eighteenth the size of the body, while

In proportion to its bulk the child's body burns up more fuel. The 3-year-old is but one-fifth the size of an adult, but requires two-

PRESIDENT TO PROPOSE HUGE CREDIT CORPORATION

Hoover Works Out Formula, to Be Submitted to Congress, for Organization Patterned After Finance Unit.

WILL SUPPLEMENT BANKING POOL

Executive Hopes to Include Details in His Message Tuesday—Has Conferred With Bernard Baruch, Julius Barnes.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—A formula for a giant credit corporation designed along the lines of the War Finance Corporation has been worked out by President Hoover and will be submitted to Congress.
The new organization will be planned to supplement the existing pool organized after President Hoover's meeting with congressional leaders Oct. 6.
The President hopes to have details worked out in time to include them in his message to Congress on Tuesday.
No one has yet been selected as a possible head of the new corporation and there is a strong possibility that Congress may be asked to make that selection.
The President was said today to feel that the banking pool has been an extremely effective service, storing confidence in banks and enabling the banks themselves to remain liquid. Its scope, however, has not been as broad as the situation demands.
The President has confided within recent weeks with several men associated with the old Finance Corporation, including Bernard Baruch, who was head of the War Industries Board, and day he talked with Julius Barnes, who was the head of the Stabilization Corporation during the war.

The War Finance Set-Up
The original War Finance Corporation was set up under war authority in 1918, with W. F. G. Harbo as Governor and Eugene A. Meyer as President. The present Governor, among others, is the bill setting it up signed by President Wilson, valued $500,000,000, with authority to issue $1,000,000,000 in bonds. The corporation was directed to make loans principally to banks and trust companies. It was limited, however, to lend up to 15 per cent of its capital and outstanding bonds direct to corporations.
It was further stipulated that making these direct loans to businesses unable to obtain money from the banks, 125 per cent lateral should be required. Throughout the war and post-war period the corporation lent hundreds of millions of dollars to banks and corporations.
In 1921, over President Wilson's veto, the Corporation was reauthorized by Congress at its last session as 1923, those in charge of activities were busy in liquidating loans of nearly $500,000,000 to farmers and stockmen.
The primary object of the revived corporation was to aid culture and exporters. Wilson rejected in vain that "no direct advances could be made to producers and if they could they would accomplish the objects in view." He contended also it would be the financing of exporters from regular commercial channels to Government. The Corporation set up nevertheless and functioned for some time.
Home Loan Banks Indorsed
President Hoover's proposed term of home loan discount was indorsed today by the Committee of Finance of his ownership conference.
The President conceived the idea after consultation with the committee, as a means of mobilizing capital to stimulate home-building.
Numerous suggestions have been received for encouraging credit through new first mortgage financing methods, the committee said. "While undoubtedly would for a time provide employment, there can be little question that the price would be a further depletion of the value of existing homes."
Financing of mass production schemes was held by the committee, headed by Frederick H. Edwards, president of the Metropolitan Insurance Co., to occupy an entire page on Tuesday.
